'Humanizing' Measures Would Give $9 Million Relief on 1956 Incomes

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 20 (P)—A Republican challenge to Gov. Harriman was seen today in the introduction of bills that would give nine million dollars in income-tax cuts to the aged, the blind,

Chief Asks For Traffic Squad Here

A full-time traffic squad to cover key points in the city was advocated to the Board of Police Commissioners yesterday by Police Chief Raymond Van Buren in his annual report, which also noted that city traffic nearly doubled in 1955.

Arrests last year totaled 1,057, a boost of only 29 over 1954, and the number of persons injured in traffic mishap was only slightly above that of the past two years, with no traffic deaths reported.

A TOTAL of 222 persons were injured in 154 traffic mishaps last year. The 1954 total was 216 in 151 accidents. The 1953 total was 202 injured in 154 accidents. One person was killed in 1954 and the 1953 mishaps resulted in three deaths.

The report was the 64th for the local department. It noted a present force of 46 men and seven special officers, and said 10 vacancies exist on the regular force.

"A NEW TRAFFIC control committee has been appointed by the Common Council," the chief's report noted, "and there made in reference to parking, one-way streets, and new parking-meter areas."

Traffic has almost doubled, he said, and he suggested "a full-time traffic squad for our most traveled intersections."

Police radio calls, the report said, last year increased by more than 1,000 over 1954. The system is now handled by the New York Telephone Co., and gives "excellent service."

SENT OUT from headquarters were 3,661 calls. The total does not include calls made to headquarters from radio patrol cars.

The department now has five sedans and three motorcycles in service. Oldest of the cars, the chief said, is a 1946 model, which was in an accident last spring, and he recommended that it be replaced with a new one.

Of the 1,057 arrests made last year, 488 were on charges of drunkenness, 183 for violations of the city traffic code, 145 for infractions of the vehicle and traffic laws, 68 for disorderly conduct and 62 for third degree assault.

ARRESTS on more serious charges included four for grand larceny, first degree, two for grand larceny, second degree, seven for assault, second degree, 17 for driving while intoxicated, one for second degree robbery, five for second degree forgery.

The report showed 29 juvenile delinquency arrests and several arrests on a variety of other less serious charges.

Of the total arrested, 195 were sentenced to jail and the same number paid fines. Sentence was suspended for 261 of (Continued on Page 11, Col. 4)

Review in Blue, Local Stars Set For Polio Show

This year's variety show for the March of Dimes is a star-studded presentation featuring the Review in Blue from Sampson Air Force Base and local talent of tried and true calibre scheduled to appear Monday at 8 p. m. on Kingston High School stage.

Ticket sales are reported skyrocketing since announcement that the Review in Blue would join forces with Frank Oulton's menagerie of entertainers to help raise money for the fight on polio.

Mr. Oulton, a stage director and producer over a long period of years, who has raised thousands of dollars with his variety shows for the March of Dimes said, "We're happy to have the Air Force talent with us this year. Press notices assure they'll be a real hit here Monday night."

THE AIRMEN are coming to the high school through the cooperation of Sgt. Larry Snyder, local recruiter for the Air Force, whose office is at 259 Fair street. "I like Kingston," he said, "and want to be a real part of the community." That's the reason he's going all out to help the polio drive, also because a relative close to him has recovered from the affliction through research carried on by the March of Dimes.

"I KNOW the Review in Blue will click here," he said. "The boys have been great wherever they've appeared."

Director Oulton, who has been packing the high school auditorium with his annual shows, has a fine lineup of entertainers ready, and is confident Monday's program will be as well received as ever.

Route 28 Survey Is Underway

Surveys to establish grades and alignment of a section of The Onteora Trail, (Route 28) from Boiceville to Pine Hill, are now in progress, a state official said today.

Reconstruction of the route, which is expected to be almost entirely on a new alignment, will not be scheduled until funds are made available, but planning is expected to continue this year.

THE ROAD is to be rebuilt from the point where the present concrete ends in the Boiceville area to Pine Hill, and at that place a new grade is to be established north of the present winding mountain road.

Rebuilding of the road, if funds are made available this year, would not start until 1957 because plans will not be completed before the latter part of this year.

"THE PROJECT will be a costly one," a state official said, because little of the old alignment will be used. It was indicated that the route will be a two-lane road 24 feet wide, similar to the concrete section which now ends at Boiceville.

A starting date for this project, and others in the area, including Kingston's arterial route system, will not be determined until the state decides upon the extent of its public works fund, and a road-building program is announced.

Watson CC Dinner Complete Sellout

All tickets have been sold for the annual banquet of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce on January 25 at which Thomas J. Watson, Jr., president of the International Business Machines Corporation, will be the speaker.

This announcement was made today by Clarence H. Buddenhagen, chairman of the banquet committee at a meeting of the group Thursday afternoon at which final arrangements for this annual event were made.

The management of the Governor Clinton Hotel informed the committee some time ago that the maximum capacity which could be satisfactorily handled would be 350 persons. The 350th ticket was sold early Thursday afternoon.

Through the courtesy of WKNY arrangements have been made by the committee to broadcast the entire banquet program. The program should start between 8:15 and 8:30 p. m. The banquet will be informal and no tables will be reserved. Only those participating in the program will be seated at the head table. All others will be (Continued on Page 11, Col. 1)

Dulles Asia Statement Questioned in Senate

Mansfield Calls for Foreign Policy Revision to Stop Soviet Offensive

Washington, Jan. 20 (P)—Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) called today for a full-scale congressional review of what he described as Secretary of State Dulles' "diplomacy of the brink."

In a speech prepared for the Senate, he said this country must revise its foreign policy to meet a Soviet diplomatic offensive already in "high gear" or face the loss of "countless millions of our citizens and hundreds of billions of dollars."

Mansfield, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the need for review is pointed up by the Life Magazine article quoting Dulles as saying that administration policy prevented war in Asia three times.

DEMOCRATS have been hammering away at the statement, attributed to Dulles in the article that "the ability to get to the verge without getting into war is the necessary art." Dulles himself has backed away from it, saying he would not have put it that way for publication.

While most Senate Republicans rallied to the support of Dulles in the controversy over the article, or, Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.), criticized him in the Senate yesterday for what Jenner called a "soft policy" toward Russian expansion.

And Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) suggested to reporters that President Eisenhower—who at a news conference expressed complete faith in Dulles—should read the Life article. Eisenhower said he hadn't read it.

MANSFIELD SAID "The wheels of review" of American foreign policy "have begun to turn both here and abroad" as a result of the magazine article. "It is long past due," he declared.

"For three years we have lived on borrowed time in foreign relations," Mansfield declared, adding "I have failed to find one major new approach to the situation abroad in the last few years."

There are, he said, "advertising gimmicks; there are new words; there are louder words which fewer and fewer people heed."

BUT THESE gimmicks and words, he continued, add up to the continuance of policies devised long before the Eisenhower administration took office, and they are now "dressed up in the diplomacy of the brink."

Mansfield said he did not doubt Dulles' "honorable intentions," but that he should have used means other than a magazine (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Downtown Parley Slated on Housing

A proposed urban development plan for the downtown area of the city and "all matters beneficial to downtown," will be discussed at an open meeting of the Downtown Merchants and Taxpayers group next Wednesday at 8:30 p. m., in the Recreation Center, 97 Broadway, it was announced today.

All merchants, taxpayers and others interested are asked to attend. Officers for the year will be elected.

A similar meeting several weeks ago attracted a large attendance, and the group then discussed the urban development plan and the feasibility of obtaining the proposed new county office building for the downtown section. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

Byrd Opposes U.S. Aid To States for Schools

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 20 (P)—Sen. Harry F. Byrd, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, says he opposes any new federal spending including an administration proposal to give two million dollars to the public schools.

The Virginia Democrat said here last night also that he was opposed to tax relief "if it has to be added to the public debt" even though he believes taxpayers are "entitled" to some relief.

Byrd spoke before a dinner of the New York Horticultural Society, which concluded its 101st annual convention. The Senator said he was opposed to federal aid to states for education because federal controls would go along with federal money.

"The government just takes money from the states and sends our own money back to us and tells us how to spend it," he said. "There's not a single county or city or state in this country that can't educate its own children," he added.

As for tax relief, Byrd pointed out that it was under his leadership last year that an attempt to reduce income taxes $20 a person was defeated. "I understand they are going to try to start it up again," he said. "We're going to try to beat it again."

Benefits Program Is Planned for State Employees

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 20 (AP)—A Republican program of hospital benefits for present and retired state employees and their dependents will be proposed to the Legislature Monday night.

Sen. George R. Metcalf, Auburn Republican and chairman of the joint legislative committee on health insurance plans, made the announcement today.

The legislation, to be introduced by Metcalf and Assemblywoman Genesta M. Strong of Plandome, would authorize the Civil Service Commission to negotiate a basic hospital contract with a corporation organized under the state insurance law for the purpose of furnishing hospital benefits to present and retired state employees and their dependents.

Competitive bids for the contract would be required. The cost of the premium would be divided equally between the employee or pensioner and the state. On or after next employee of the state—except seasonal, part-time, per diem or municipal workers—would automatically become a subscriber of the hospital benefit plan unless the commission was notified of intention not to participate.

THE BASIC hospital contract would include service benefits providing full coverage, with no deductible features; 120 days of semi-private care and provision for unlimited ancillary services; coverage of newborn from the date of birth and maternity coverage on a service benefit basis.

It would provide coverage also for hospital out-patient care; out-of-area benefits the same as in-area benefits; short-term care up to 120 days for patients with tuberculosis or mental disease; right of conversion to direct payment and the right of reinstatement within 120 days upon payment of back premiums and the right to include sponsored dependents on the contract.

A SPONSORED dependent is defined as a person who is financially dependent upon the subscriber and who is a member of his family, though not his spouse or child.

Metcalf said the proposed legislation "should be considered the first step toward a complete program of health insurance, including medical-surgical benefits, for state employees and annuitants and their dependents."

In his annual message to the Legislature on Jan. 4, Gov. Harriman said he expected to recommend to the Legislature a pre-paid health insurance program for state employees. The cost would be shared by employees and the state.

Hotel Has . . .

would be installed in every room. Only by keeping the hotel modern in every respect, he said, could business be increased and its position in hotel circles maintained. During 1955 the multiple Dwelling Law was met and a sprinkler system, fire detection system, fire doors and fire escapes installed. This was done at a cost in excess of $20,000 and paid for out of earnings.

During 1955 there was a heavy occupancy by families waiting for suitable housing and Mr. Gross said in 1956 and 1957 the hotel would begin to feel the effects of the IBM training program which would bring many transients to town for periods of about two weeks duration. A plan has been outlined for hotel participation in this training program.

State Officer Of YMCA Traces Progress in Talk

Speaking before the weekly luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club Thursday, Ernest Ford, New York State Executive Secretary of the YMCA, traced a century of progress of his organization and outlined the foundation upon which the YMCA operates.

The speaker pointed out that "from the four corners of the earth the YMCA brings together in a bond of fellowship different religions, cultures, and economic systems."

THE PATTERN of expansion set up by the YMCA executives in 1950 to cover the following 10 years of growth was emphasized as a fairly accurate picture by Mr. Ford, who quoted figures to show that in five years the total membership had exceeded the contemplated figure by over 100,000 persons. Further results of the past five years indicate that most totals will exceed the original pattern, said the speaker.

Pointing out that "the YMCA is a fellowship of men and boys of Christian personality in a Christian society," Ernest Ford emphasized the leadership ability to be found in participation in the YMCA program. He said that personnel standards in the program have increased to the point where one out of seven members in the organization are serving in a leadership capacity.

"IT'S A UNIQUE partnership of lay people and professionals working cooperatively to take people at their level of interest and welcome them into an environment to make better citizens of them," remarked Mr. Ford.

Touching on the local situation the state executive secretary explained that the Kingston YMCA was one of the oldest in the territory and that it needed modernization in order to carry on the "leadership to expose young people to get effects to combat delinquency."

Kiwanis president Bernard Feeney presided at the meeting and introduced Louis Schaffer, local secretary of the YMCA, who introduced the speaker. Following the meeting, various new Kiwanis committees held brief meetings for the purpose of organization for the 1956 program.

Boat Club Makes Bid for Property At Ferry Landing

A bid was made this week by the Rhinecliff-Rhinebeck Boat Club, Inc., for use of the Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry property on the east side of the Hudson when the new bridge is opened. The club adopted a resolution, which was forwarded to the Rhinebeck town board asking that body to consult with state officials on the proposal.

A request has been made by Rhinecliff fire commissioners to keep the property open to the public because it is an access to water for fighting fires.

The Rhinebeck Gazette yesterday noted that "the town board is understood to have assurance that the property will be made available to it for public use as a park or for a similar purpose."

article to "lay before the country and the world an accurate picture of the inner workings of our foreign policy."

He said past policies, inaugurated under Democratic administrations were "bold, intelligent and effective," in stemming the tide of Soviet advance towards the Middle East and in Western Europe but in many parts of the world the situation has changed.

"A SOVIET diplomatic offensive, spearheaded by Messrs. Khrushchev and Bulganin is in high gear in Asia, and has jumped the wall of containment in the Middle East," Mansfield declared.

"The German and Japanese situations are in a perceptible transition, North Africa is in turmoil and the repercussions push France closer to political disaster. Western Europe, groping towards unity, is in a decisive struggle at this moment with its inner forces of disunity."

NOTHING, he said, is settled in Korea and the off-shore islands may yet lead us into a military involvement with Communist China if not to World War 3 itself. And "the danger of a catastrophe in Indochina" has not yet passed.

He added that Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's Saturday Evening Post article "has raised questions involving the capacity of our armed forces to meet the commitments" already undertaken, and "these questions, too, will need to be examined."

It doesn't help matters, he said, for President Eisenhower to "issue disclaimers after the words of his subordinates, civilian and military alike have done the damage."

unwillingness of the majority of the Legislature to provide the funds needed to meet the expenditures they approve."

TO THIS the sponsors replied in their statement: "In view of Gov. Harriman's own admission that revenues this year are exceeding his estimates by at least $6 million dollars, there is no longer any doubt as to Republican fiscal responsibility in passing the humanizing amendments last year."

The sponsors added that they "disagree with the validity of the governor's second objection, that the amendment offered greater benefits to 'taxpayers having higher incomes and least need of relief.'"

In his budget message Feb. 1, Harriman will propose his own tax-reduction program. It is expected to provide for a 40-million-dollar cut in income taxes, applicable this year to payments of 1955 income. It is expected also to provide for a series of "humanizing" amendments to the tax law to aid the blind, the aged, working mothers and persons with extraordinary medical expenses. Whether the amendments would be applicable to taxes due in April on 1955 income is not known.

Living Costs Decline

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—The government reported today that living costs fell three-tenths of one percent from November to December, the first decline since August. Prices for food, transportation and housing dropped, while medical and personal care costs edged upward. The December index of the Bureau of Labor Statistics was 114.7 per cent of the figure for the 1947-49 base period. This is a fraction higher than in December, 1954.

whose members work as a unit on a common project, has provided the impulse to move the Exposition to new levels of achievement each year, he said.

Its growth "has been widely noted by national advertisers, who point to it as an outstanding example of what can be done with such a show, Mr. Smith pointed out.

One explanation of its success is the "step-up of responsibility" within the Exposition committee. Members of the committee are moved by natural steps into top committee slots and responsibility. This provides thorough grounding in Exposition operation to committee membership.

ONE OF THE cardinal purposes of the show is to raise funds for the many charitable and service activities of the Lions Club.

The George A. Trahan Co. of Cohoes, which has decorated for the Exposition for the past eight years, will again handle decorations at the army. They will be totally new and in a different style and color scheme, it was reported. The firm also handles the Christmas lighting decorations in Kingston each year.

Mr. Smith said the Exposition exhibits would be "completely protected" by local police authorities both night and day during the five-day show.

A small admission will be charged. Children under 16 will not be admitted to the show unless accompanied by their parents.

MEMBERS of the Lions committee in charge of arrangements for the show, in addition to Mr. Smith are J. Wilson Tinsley, vice chairman; George Svirsky, Roger Baer, Joseph A. Fassbender, Burton F. Giles, Henry Singer, Minford A. Overfield, Deval H. Dunbar, Vincent R. Burns, Donald E. Briggs, Francis H. Law, Theodore C. Gile, W. Dale Swartzmiller, Max J. Oppenheimer and James F. Flood. Mr. Singer will serve as chairman of publicity.

Wife Killer to Die

Plymouth, Mass., Jan. 20 (AP)—Dapper Domenic Bonomi, 34-year-old contractor, today was under sentence to die in the Massachusetts electric chair as a wife-slayer. A Superior Court jury yesterday deliberated only an hour and 20 minutes before returning a verdict of guilty in the bludgeon-strangulation slaying of Mildred Bonomi, 31, mother of two. Because the jury failed to recommend mercy, Judge Frank E. Smith had no choice but to sentence Bonomi to the electric chair as required by law.

Jaycees Invite Area Young Men To Join Group

Jack Doyle, local Jaycee president and Marvin Millens, Jaycee Week chairman, today extended an invitation to all young men between the ages of 21 and 35 to join the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce is dedicated to two purposes:

Improvement and development of Kingston and improvement and development of its individual members — to train them for business advancement and civic leadership.

A Federation of more than 2,500 local chapters, the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce has more than 200,000 members.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower, speaking of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, recently said, "Yours is one of our nation's most distinguished and enterprising organizations. You are young and responsible people, with impressive careers and achievements already recorded to your credit."

Officers' Group Plans Banquet On Anniversary

The Veteran's Non-Commissioned Officers Association, 156th Field Artillery, New York National Guard, will observe its 10th anniversary at its annual banquet at Tommie's Restaurant, Thursday, Feb. 16.

Formed shortly after the return of the field artillery unit to the city following World War 2, the association holds its monthly meeting every third Wednesday of the month at the New York State Armory, Manor avenue.

All former non-commissioned officers of the 156th are invited to the meetings.

Officers of the association are Burton F. Giles, president, Roy Houghtaling, first vice president; John H. Dittus, Jr., second vice president; Fred A. Gerhardt, secretary and Stanley Colvin, treasurer.

A steak dinner and dancing is planned for the annual banquet.

St. Paul's Church Elects President And New Council

George Schantz was elected president of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church at the annual congregational meeting held Tuesday. Mr. Schantz succeeds Robert Dixon in the leadership of the church and has faithfully served the congregation as councilman since its organization as a Lutheran Mission congregation on May 27, 1927. Now he follows in the footsteps of his late father, Jacob Schantz who served as first president of the congregation.

Other councilmen elected to three-year terms were Charles Bahr, Henry Kraus and Fred Renn. The Rev. Donald Ebel, pastor, expressed the gratitude of the congregation to William Koeppen and Herman LaTour who retired from the council after many years of service. Both served on the first council following the organization of the church.

The retiring president, Mr. Dixon expressed his appreciation to the members for their cooperation in carrying on the work of the congregation over the past year and offered several suggestions for improving the service of the congregation to both church and community.

Jehovah Witnesses To Hear Guest Speaker

"How Bible Principles Apply to Your Life" will be presented Sunday, Jan. 22 at 3 p. m. to the public in a free Bible lecture at Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses at 105 Pine street.

The speaker, C. M. Johnston, is visiting the Kingston congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses as a traveling representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society. Mr. Johnston, an ordained minister, will answer the questions among others, "Are the Bible principles practical today?" and "What do they really mean to you?" The public is invited to attend.

Following the public talk a study in the Watchtower magazine, a Bible study aid, will be conducted, "The Test That Leads to a Blessing." No collections will be taken.

Adventist Church Services Planned

For this week only the Sabbath school and services of the Seventh Day Adventist Church will be held in the morning. Sabbath school will convene at 9 a. m. and church services will begin at 11 a. m. This change is for the convenience of church officers who will meet in Poughkeepsie in the afternoon for conference to learn how to better perform their duties.

The lesson study for January 21 is "The Vineyard of the Lord; A Vision of God." Separate class study of this subject will be followed by the mission story and reports on local mission work.

CHURCH SERVICES will follow the mission period. The Rev. Jamile Jacobs' sermon is entitled, "Anchor of the Soul." The Dorcas Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Gerald Shampo at 7 p. m. Monday. Prayer meeting will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.

There will be a food sale sponsored by the Dorcas Society on Thursday, Jan. 26, beginning at 9 a. m. in the Smith avenue Bull Market.

Ulster Fuel Tax Share Is $77,829

Ulster county's share of the state motor fuel tax receipts is $77,829.64 for the period ending Dec. 31, 1955, State Comptroller Arthur Levitt announced today.

A total statewide distribution of $3,138,781.18 will be made, he said. The law provides that 10 per cent of the statewide collection of the state's four-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax and the six-cents-a-gallon tax on diesel motor fuel are allotted to the counties on the proportional basis of county road and town highway mileage in each county. The money is earmarked by statute for deposit in the county road funds.

Local Guardsmen Await Inspection

National Guardsmen of the 156th Field Artillery Battalion are ready for their annual Federal inspection. An inspection team composed of Lt. Col. Radzwick and Lt. Col. Barker will move in on the troops stationed in Kingston Jan. 23 and then on Jan. 24 the team will inspect the units stationed in the Poughkeepsie Armory.

The inspection team originates from Headquarters First Army and has the mission of determining the effectiveness of the local guardsmen. Each year the entire battalion is given a thorough "going over" to ascertain not only the combat readiness of the units within the command but also to rate each battery of the battalion on administration, supply, motor maintenance, communications, gunnery, mess and training of personnel.

THE 156TH, recently re-designated as a heavy artillery battalion, is scheduled to receive its 8" self-propelled howitzers in the near future. The battalion experienced a conversion when on Oct. 1, 1955 it was relieved from further duty with the 27th Armored Division NYNG and assigned to II Corp Artillery as a Corp Artillery Battalion.

A recent Corp Artillery inspection team found units of the 156th in excellent shape. Officers and men of the unit are aiming to convince the commanding general, First Army, on Jan. 23-24 that the Hudson Valley citizen soldier is as good as any found elsewhere.

SCHOLARS ON THE FARM

Time was when farmers raised their crops in much the same way for centuries, perhaps thousands of years. Even now, in some parts of the earth, farmers are cultivating the soil almost exactly as their ancestors did many generations ago.

But within recent times, and especially during the past three or four decades agriculture has changed radically. New methods of cultivation, new fertilizers, new methods of animal husbandry, new and much more productive hybrids have brought about a virtual revolution on our farms.

This has not come about because individual farmers have suddenly broken loose with a raft of new ideas. Most of the significant change may be attributed to research conducted by agricultural colleges and other institutions.

Much of this research has been financed by the federal government. Taxpayers' money has been used to bring about advances in almost every phase of agriculture, horticulture and animal husbandry.

The fact is, however, that even more could be done. Farmers need to know more about production. Much more needs to be learned about processing and marketing.

That is why President Eisenhower's request for a 25 per cent increase in agricultural research funds warrants prompt congressional approval. After this increase the total will be only 103 million dollars, which is less than some corporations spend on research and development. It would be money well spent.

With so many things supposed to be completely foolproof, it's amazing how some people get their hands on them.

CONGRESSIONAL DELAYS

Congress is in the first weeks of its new session. As usual there are a great many important matters on which the legislators will have to decide. As usual the session will end with important business unfinished—many matters that will have to be postponed until next year.

At the end of the session a look at the Congressional record will show that the men who represent us worked hard. They put in long hours of service on committees as well as on the floors of their respective bodies of Congress. But the record will also show long and meaningless speeches, needless delays by legislators who want to impress their constituents. The Congress will turn its attention to matters which do not need immediate attention and ignore some which do.

This year the pressure for adjournment early will be greater than usual. It is a presidential election year and with conventions to attend and campaigning to conduct the eagerness of Senators and Representatives to get out early can be understood. It would be possible for them to adjourn earlier—and to get more done—if they were to devise more efficient ways of scheduling consideration of legislation and were to cut down on bombast.

If this Congress would do that it would set a precedent for others to make further attempts to streamline the business of making our laws.

One of the slick ways some seem to pursue in putting things off until tomorrow is to wait until it comes.

Some of the ties a fellow gets couldn't attract any more attention than they do if he wore them without a shirt.

A NEW DECLARATION

Philadelphia, which witnessed the signing of the Declaration of Independence, is to hear the proclamation of a new message of freedom. On January 18 a "Declaration of Interdependence" was signed by 1,400 individuals, representing 49 nations. The gist of the proclamation is the belief that "a free and peaceful world is attainable through cooperative action."

Only cynics can find fault with this purpose, though many feel that such an aim

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE NEEDLE

All day long I wait for needles. They stick me early; they stick me late. In the mathematics of medicine, needles play a primary role. They take blood out of you and put blood in. They test and check and presumably the day does come when one gets well and there are no more needles.

I serenely watch how a needle-pusher looks for just the right spot and there are gradations of sticks. Sometimes the operation is absolutely painless and at other times, it feels as though someone is just trying to get even. A three-phase push is a warning of pain to come.

Well, a fellow can get used to most anything and lying on a bed for hours is a novelty for me. I have slept little in my life, fewer hours perhaps than Thomas Edison. It seemed so wasteful just to sleep when there is so much to do and so much to know. Now, they tell me that sleep is the cure-all, that nothing does as much good as sleep. Hospitals do not, as most of us do not, coordinate thought and action. If sleep is the great cure-all, why don't they let you sleep? So at about 6 a. m., in comes somebody to take your temperature. The theory is that the patient will go back to sleep. But he is awake. He wants to know what's going on in the world. And he dare not go to sleep, lest the needle-gal come around to stick him. So you wait for the needle-gal. If some crazy doctor decided to make you fast until after the needle-gal got you, you go hungry.

That is bad coordination because when I am hungry, I am ill-tempered and here I am supposed to be serene like Grace Kelly will be when she marries Grimaldi, but how can you be serene on an empty stomach, waiting for a gal to stick a needle into you?

Now if that is not an earth-shaking problem, I do not know what is. Maybe it is Herbert Hoover's suggestion that we get a second, appointed Vice President to do the President's work while the President goes in for ceremonies, occasions, events and speeches. I am not too enthusiastic about this suggestion of Mr. Hoover's. The Mayor of the Palace idea is pretty old in human history and it usually ends the same way: No. 1 peters down into a fun-loving lazy-bones who does nothing, while No. 2 becomes the boss but has no lawful responsibility. Charles Martel (714-741) came to power that way and in Japan the Shogun system operated for several centuries, the Mikado being just a poor ceremonial creature, virtually the prisoner of the Shogun.

Mr. Hoover knows all about that but he is undoubtedly trying to help his friend, Ike Eisenhower, out of a bad spot. The truth is that Eisenhower always managed to have someone do his work for him as any General in the Army does. Sherman Adams has been an excellent Top Sergeant and the proof of the pudding lies in the fact that the show continues to be on the road, come what may. So we might as well elect Sherman Adams President or go on as we are with Ike to make us happy and Sherm to get the work done.

One should imagine that that is what will happen because with some Republicans reach the point where they suggest Harold Stassen for President, it means that Ike will have to do his duty and save his country.

Lying here, with the telephone cut off and the orders strict against visitors or work, I scribble these lines because every day I must take pen in hand and write in old-fashioned long hand what comes to mind. It is a habit from which I cannot break myself nor do I want to.

For instance, I see that John Foster Dulles continues to tell how close to the brink of war we were. I wrote that time after time last April, May, June and there was no question about it. We never did get into World War III because we live in a projection of World War II, but people do not get killed in this kind of war; they may get discouraged and depressed but they do live. It is a novel kind of war but not as devastating as a hydrogen-bomb war would have to be.

Here in the hospital there can only be optimism; the alternative is too unpleasant. (Copyright, 1956, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

MORE ABOUT DOCTOR AND THE LAW

We have been talking the last couple of days about the physician in relation to the law on the basis of malpractice and the fact that there is a legal duty on the part of the doctor to use due and reasonable care in treating a patient. A breach of that duty amounts to negligence and if, as a direct result of that negligence the patient suffers injury, he is entitled to recover damages. In an editorial by W. C. J. Meredith, Q.C., Dean of the Faculty of Law of McGill University, Montreal, it is pointed out that, as a general rule, the burden of proving negligence is on the patient.

"Needless to say the duty to use reasonable care applies just as much to diagnosis (the art of distinguishing one disease from another) as to treatment. Many legal cases have resulted from the doctor's omission to take X-rays. Whether or not you take an X-ray, of course, depends on circumstances but I would say this—in case of doubt take an X-ray. Here is a typical sort of case in which trouble arises. A patient comes in with some suspicion of fracture. The doctor does not wish to put him to unnecessary expense and asks him to return in a couple of days to recheck his condition. The patient never returns. Six months later the doctor receives a letter claiming damages." What has happened?

The patient has very likely left the office, applied his own remedy or that advised by well-meaning but uninformed friends or even neglected the condition entirely, as has been known, complications develop, and finally he consults another doctor who has an X-ray taken which reveals a dislocation. The case comes to court. The doctor says he told the patient to return and give him a progress report. The patient denies this and claims that the doctor told him that no X-ray was necessary. It is one man's word against the other. The patient was definitely injured and before a sympathetic jury is likely to win his case.

Dr. Lewis Regan has made the wise suggestion that when a patient does not report back as suggested and where the doctor believes there is risk of complication, he should send the patient a registered letter reminding him or her to return. If no notice is taken of the letter, the doctor can be considered to have done his duty. The fact that the patient was told to return and did not do so should also be entered in the doctor's records. Mr. Meredith points out that records are of great importance in malpractice suits and should always be accurate and complete.

Another bit of advice is given, one which I feel too few physicians follow. If the patient is dissatisfied with his progress, or his family is dissatisfied, by all means call in a consultant. Needless to say a consultant should always be called in if the doctor is in doubt as to his own ability to diagnose and treat the case but many doctors feel that the patient might think he is being put to unnecessary expense in calling in the opinion of a specialist and thus do not do so.

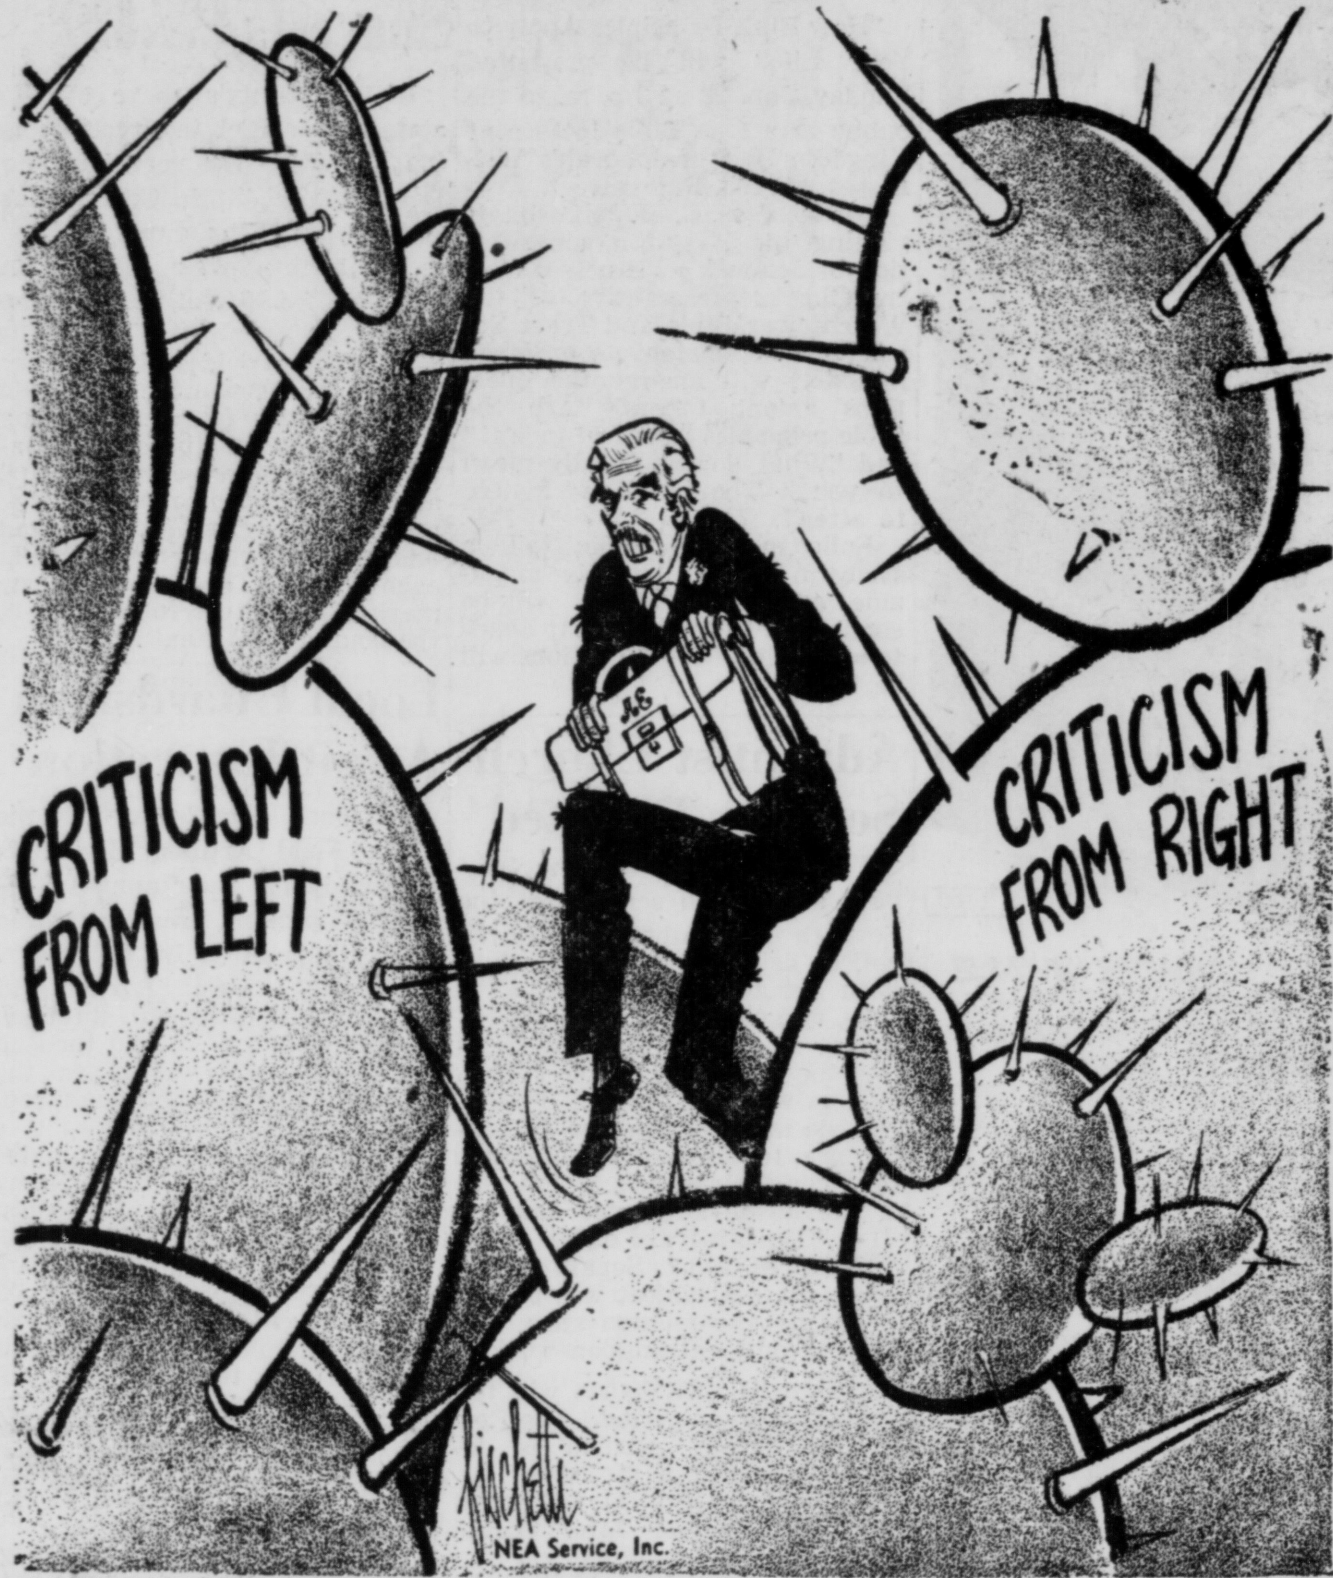

Constipation

It is common knowledge that more people suffer from constipation than are free of it. Send for Dr. Barton's helpful booklet entitled "Constipation," enclosing 25 cents in coin, to cover cost of handling and mailing, to The Bell Syndicate, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Post Office Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

is Utopian in view of the instances of international friction today.

If the goal which backers of the new movement are promoting is ever gained, January 18, 1956, may stand high in the annals of progress.

Garden of Eden

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent
Washington — (NEA) — The 1956 model Eisenhower Aid-to-Education program comes a lot closer to meeting the demands of the states and pressure groups that have been insisting there must be more federal help for the public school system.

National Education Assn., principal lobby for school teachers and officials, says that if Congress will enact the main provisions of the new Eisenhower program it will be as much as can be expected.

In brief, the President now proposes a five-year plan costing two billion dollars of federal money. When this is matched by state and local funds, it means a four-billion-dollar outlay for 470,000 new classrooms.

By 1961, it is hoped this will lick the shortage. School construction will then be turned back to state and local responsibility. This will satisfy organizations like the U. S. Chamber of Commerce which insists that there must be no federal government interference with public schools.

THE NEW PROGRAM DIFFERS from the old in one principal point. The federal grant-in-aid program has been increased from 67 million dollars a year for three years to 250 million dollars a year for five years.

Last year, the grants were to be restricted by a lot of tricky conditions. This year the conditions have been removed and the grants will be handled separately.

Within a short time the U. S.

Office of Education will have tables prepared showing what each state will be eligible to receive under the new program.

The formula for distribution is based on the per capita expenditures for public schools and the per capita income in each state. Poorer states having the greatest need for more school facilities will thus get more aid than the richer states, but every state will get some aid.

The tables may at first show that eight or 10 states are being penalized on the amount of aid they can receive. But these states can get off this list by simply spending more of their own money on public education.

ONE THEME EMPHASIZED in the new program is to give states and local school districts more financial incentives to solve their own problems. To find out what the facts are in each state, the new program includes a 20-million-dollar fund to finance local studies on public school needs and to make plans to meet them.

When Marion B. Folsom took over his job as Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare last August, he found that next to polio vaccine the Aid-to-Education program was the largest stacked on his desk. A program had been prepared but nothing had been done about it.

Elaborate surveys had been made on school finances and shortages they turned up disputed the statistics.

Instead of making another survey, Folsom calmly admitted it was impossible to determine the exact number of additional classrooms needed. Then in three months he shaped up a program to deal with the problem broadly.

THIS REVISED PROGRAM is being sent to Congress without the benefit of final reports from the late White House Conference on Education. Folsom asked the conference officials for their analyses by the end of the year. When they couldn't produce, he went ahead anyway with only their deliberations and preliminary recommendations as guides.

In a way this is a sharp commentary on the utility of 2,000 delegate conferences, even when well organized and preceded by 48 state conferences strung out over a year.

In planning for a second conference to consider the problems of higher education, all this complicated monkey business will be avoided. President Eisenhower will name a smaller conference of 25 or 30 college and university educators. These experts will take a quick look at what's needed and make their recommendations in a couple of months instead of fiddling around forever.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Can anyone explain why our second big war and the Korean war have produced so few statues to individual heroes, and parks or squares named after generals or admirals? There are practically none of the proud, patriotic landmarks which have been the tradition of organized nations and homogeneous peoples, even in defeat.

If I mention the statue to the man raising the Stars and Stripes on Iwo Jima, I believe I have almost covered that phase of the story. But if there are other such monuments they are relatively few and this strange change may be observed negatively in all the other countries except, probably, Russia.

I saw a story of a strike riot recently which gave sidelong mention of a square in a small eastern city named for general MacArthur. But where are memorials equivalent to Grant park, Sheridan road and Logan square in Chicago, Pershing square in New York, Los Angeles and Danbury, and Father Duffy Square in the confluence of Broadway and Seventh avenue? Horace Greeley is honored with a square in New York, but is General Patton?

We had Franklin D. Roosevelt drive and LaGuardia field in New York long before those statesmen were laid away even though both had technically disapproved monuments to living persons. Roosevelt's practical if somewhat immodest acknowledgment of his own grandeur had been plainly implied by his preparations for the Memorial Library and for his grave, which soon got formal designation by the Department of the Interior as a "shrine." His mother barely missed ennoblement in the consecration of a lounging place for skid row bums and children and their mothers on the Lower East Side.

Robert Moses, a church Republican who built this untidy reservation after the stretch of old tenements had been knocked down, rusticated La Guardia's reverent purpose by neglecting to order the street corner signs. His primary reason for that was the old lady's parsimony in reversing the cost of a 50-cent phone call from Hyde Park to tell him she could not be down for the dedication because she had a cold. The city paid the 50 cents but saved something on the traditional scaffolds for the orators and dignitaries and the wages of men to tack up the bunting and take it down.

Is there an Eisenhower boulevard somewhere that I have not heard of? It seems to me that the only memorial to Ike was a temporary and unofficial salute, tinged with sarcasm, in London where Grosvenor Square, an American center, was commonly called "Eisenhower Platz." There is in this square a big, bronze figure of Roosevelt in the naval cape, a defined honor to which he was never entitled, and last trip in honor of some Communist by now. In Rome, recently, I met Italians who scoffed when I told them the Spanish Square at the foot of the stairs had been renamed briefly by Benito Mussolini the square, or place, of Marshal De Bono after some successful skirmish of his in Abyssinia. The change was made on strips of paper pasted over the old signs. But his glory vanished long ago when an unfortunate victim of political change and indomitable Italian incompetence in major war condemned him to temporary ignominy at the hands of a Fascist firing squad.

The West Germans have no monuments and men who surely must have been combat fighters wear nothing in their lapels. But neither do Americans nor British, and Frenchmen seem to lay more value on their Legion of Honor, which is very cheap, than on their Military Medal, almost as hard to come by as our Medal of Honor. Many Germans, however, and women as well as men, and young persons of both sexes, display a proof that they were there. These are the blind, who wear a yellow brassard with dots on it, which not only identifies them as casualties of the war, but permits them to beg, and those who lost an arm or a leg. The German civilians took terrible punishment from our bombers, and women and children suffered about equally with the men.

We have discouraged the Germans from honoring their heroes with massive statues and clearings. They are not to mind, but perhaps they only share the apathy which controls our strange conduct in this matter.

Most of our small towns, north and south, still maintain in their central squares those rain-washed limestone figures of the soldiers of a terrible war and there came in the 'twenties a good crop of that conventional doughboy in the flat iron hat, charging with a bayonet, a tedious exercise of secret training areas seldom invoked in battle.

But the monument industry has failed to exploit the market since 1945 and one reason may be that we are hatefully divided on the merits of General Marshall and General MacArthur and so on down the line.

I doubt that I shall live to see a statue of Harry S. Truman even in Kansas City. (Copyright, 1956, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

for communism have thought that the tests might be dangerous. Even the Vatican has been persuaded at times to inveigh against nuclear tests, much to the delight of Krishna Menon and Nehru of India. But there is much misunderstanding abroad about the facts.

Now, fortunately, the official facts are coming out after the completion of "Project Sunshine" by the Atomic Energy Commission. Dr. Willard F. Libby, a member of the commission and noted scientist, in an address prepared for delivery at Northwestern University this week says:

"On the basis of the information so obtained, it is possible to say unequivocally that nuclear weapons tests as carried out at the present time do not constitute a health hazard to the human population—in so far as radioactivity is concerned and it is believed with good reason that radioactivity is likely to be the most important of the radioactivities produced. It is well to note that since radioactivity is assimilated in the bones it constitutes essentially no genetic hazard, because its radiations do not reach the reproductive organs."

Dr. Libby says that, while the main part of the radioactivity from high altitude testing is deposited in the stratosphere, "the small but very significant part which falls out within a few hundred miles of the site of the explosion for weapons fired on the surface constitutes a very real hazard."

BUT HE ADDS that all weapons tests "are conducted with great attention to this and the other dangers" and that the local precautions taken "should be entirely adequate and the world-wide health hazards from the present rate of testing are insignificant."

Thus one of the biggest propaganda offensives of the Communists—to ban these tests—has been squelched by official information based on exhaustive investigation. For the Communists, knowing America is far ahead of them, want the nuclear tests abandoned and a moratorium declared while they catch up. This happened before under the Truman regime when certain American scientists discouraged continuous experimentation on the hydrogen bomb—but it will happen again. (Reproductions rights reserved)

Repair Formula

Hartford, Conn. (P) — Walter Gruenemann, an industrial engineer, says he tried repeatedly to repair the heater in his automobile, but had no success until this happened: While parked in a restricted area, he saw a policeman approaching. Assuming correctly that he wouldn't be bothered if he pretended to be making repairs, Gruenemann lifted the hood of the car, loosened a screw and retightened it after the policeman had passed. The heater has been working fine ever since.

The church of St. Lawrence in Exeter, England built in 1202 was ordered destroyed by the Cromwell Government as superfluous. It was saved by the parishioners who purchased it for its scrap value of $50 and refused to demolish it till the king was restored and the church was allowed to stand.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

New York (AP)—Alec Guinness, regarded by many as one of the finest actors alive, regards his success with restrained enthusiasm.

"It's practically all due to lack of food and plenty of disappointments," he said wryly. "Believe me, they can be real incentives."

CRITICS PRAISE Guinness for his chameleon-like ability to play any role. Perhaps no actor since the late Lon Chaney has used so many disguises.

"Alec's roles have ranged from the third murderer in 'Macbeth' to Hamlet. In 'Kind Hearts and Coronets' he played eight different characters. In his latest film, 'The Prisoner,' he portrays a cardinal, who fights the brain-washing of a totalitarian government."

"I LIKE VARIETY in life as well as in the theatre," he said. "I hate to be typed. If I see any danger of that, I make a dash in the opposite direction."

"Some people like to find a success formula and stick to it. I don't have a formula. I live from hand to mouth, from instinct to instinct."

Guinness also dislikes formulas in plays or films.

"Why should they always have to deliver a message, or try to make some final comment on life?" he asked. "Isn't it enough if an evening in the theatre merely provides one with entertainment and something to talk about?"

"I DON'T KNOW of any major problem in living that can be settled in two hours. Do you?"

Alec has a deep and sustained love of the profession he still feels he hasn't mastered after 22 years of study.

"There is an old saying that it takes 20 years to make an actor," he said. "I'm stepping it up a bit. It takes longer."

Few actors have had a harder struggle reaching the top. At 11 he decided on a career in acting but was told by his teacher he lacked the ability. He went to an acting school and again was told he lacked ability. The first time he tried out for a film role the producer told him he would never make the grade.

FOR YEARS he subsisted in London in an apartment the size of a piano box on one meal a day and sandwiches brought him by friends.

"For a time I even went barefoot," he recalled. "I only had six pence a week (a dime) for pocket money, just enough to buy me a gallery seat at the old Vic Theatre."

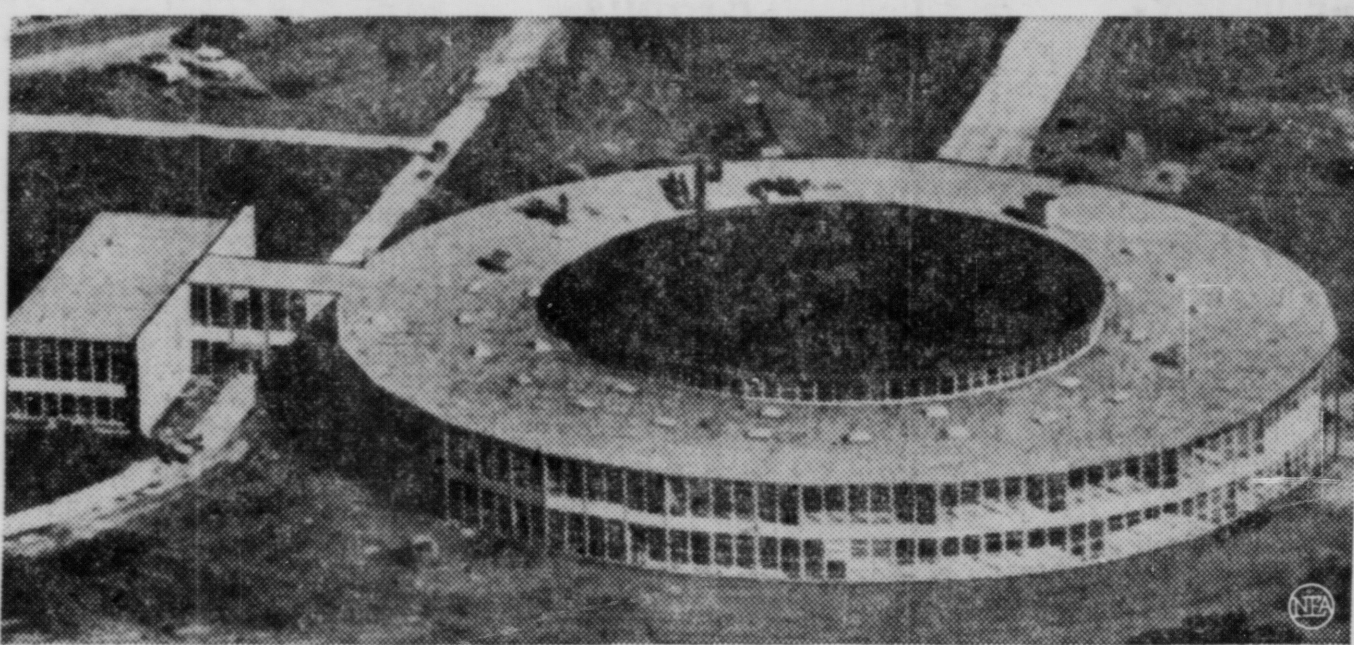

"I wouldn't go through that again. I'd do a bit of thieving first."

"BUT I SUPPOSE, actually, that I followed the right pattern. There was something about those days I still miss—a feeling that at any moment something wonderful and unexpected would happen to me."

Bit by bit, role by role, he worked his way to the top in both the theatre and films. Now Alec, who leads a simple, placid life off-stage, modestly wonders how long his present fame will endure.

"After all, one has to face the fact that the average film star only lasts about seven years," he said, grimacing. He thought a bit, then added cheerfully:

"On the other hand, if you've got great big outstanding ears, you've got one advantage over a handsome leading man. There are still a lot of character roles you can play."

ROUNDING OUT THEIR EDUCATION—Nope, it's not a railroad roundhouse. It is St. Patrick's High School, nearing completion, in Kankakee, Ill. Center of the unconventional structure houses a gymnasium. Exterior walls are almost completely glass. The building, which some designers have labeled "the school of tomorrow," will accommodate 500 students and cost $636,000.

Credit Curbs Are Seen Easing As Business Moves Past Peak

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—Easing of federal restraint on mortgage credit—and a spirited drive to reverse the tight money policy aimed at discouraging installment buying—has businessmen wondering today if Washington is changing its thinking on the state of the economy.

A few months ago the big bogey in the administration's mind was the fear that inflation might threaten again. In other words, that the business boom might get going too fast.

THIS WEEK'S ACTIONS—and talk—have businessmen wondering if Washington is now more worried about the chance that business may be at or past the peak.

There are suspicions that the Federal Reserve Board is shifting from its policy of active restraint. The board, many thought, would hike its interest rates again at the start of the year. It hasn't. And New York bankers say the money supply may get a little easier soon.

The two spots in the economy where a downturn is now apparent are auto production and sales, and home building.

The Veterans Administration and the Federal Housing Administration have taken note of the drop in home building and canceled part of the restraints on credit they ordered last July.

The agencies again will permit 30-year mortgages instead of a 25-year limit, as decreed last summer. They eased up on the reins just when builders gathered in the capital to predict a 7 per cent cutback in home building because of tight money.

ON THE AUTO FRONT, Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors, has protested against the credit curbs imposed by Federal Reserve policy. He blames the tight credit situation as a chief cause for the prospects that the auto industry won't sell as many cars this year.

Businessmen don't discount the roles played by housing and auto production in boosting industrial output to its high level. About one fourth of the steel production has been going into cars. And nearly a million workers contribute to the making of the nation's cars and parts. Some of them already have been laid off.

HOME BUILDING has been the other big "extra" that has been boosting business in general to its present high level. But applications for federal mortgage financing have dropped sharply in recent weeks. Since it takes some time for these applications to result in actual starting of new homes, the builders foresee a slump coming in the spring. And to forestall this may be why the 30-year mortgages were reinstated.

The FHA is asking Congress to liberalize the terms under which the federal agency insures loans for home repairs and improvements. The government men think this sort of spending could increase this year to 14 billion dollars. A 25 per cent gain over last year—and a new prop to the economy, if any should be needed.

P. Morgan stockholders are told here by bank officials that "consumer and mortgage debt has reached a level at which caution is suggested."

In Chicago at the conference on credit sponsored by the American Bankers Assn., bankers from Richmond, St. Louis, Seattle and Dallas all warned of the "danger of unsound terms."

Whether it's inflation or deflation you see ahead apparently depends on which side of the credit table you sit.

THE MARQUEE

T.V. — STAGE — RADIO — RECORDS — PEOPLE

By DICK KLEINER

THE RECORD SHOP: Lillian Roth, who is riding to new fame on her past, thinks she has a future in a new field—records.

The "I'll Cry Tomorrow" girl has a fine album out on Epic called surprisingly, "I'll Cry Tomorrow." And this is only the beginning.

"I'm going to make some singles," Lillian says. "I want to get on in this rock and roll stuff. And they want me to make another album, a collection of show tunes. But first I think they'll release some singles from the current album."

Lillian hopes records will help her lead "a more normal life." What is abnormal these days is her constant traveling, playing nightclubs from coast to coast.

"We have a home in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., she says, "but I've only spent two weeks there in the last two years. I've just finished 200 weeks of almost solid nightclub appearances. It seems like I've been traveling forever."

She wants to buy a house in Connecticut and spend more time in the New York area—making records and maybe a Broadway show next season.

She has plans for the extra time she'll have if the dream comes true. Her main interest, outside of her white chihuahua, white Pekingese and white poodle, is metaphysics. She hopes to devote considerable time to studying this field.

"I have premonitions," she says, "and other manifestations of thought transference. I want to learn all I can about metaphysics."

A gal singer with premonitions might raise a hob with the record industry, which is presently built on the theory that nobody knows from nothing.

SHORT PLAYING: Frankie Laine is recording 12 of his own lyrics in a new album called "On the Tip of My Tongue." . . . Cab Calloway's eight-year-old daughter, Lael, makes her recording debut with her father on a new ABC-Paramount record called "The Little Child." . . . TV announcer Nelson Case has such a tremendous collection of jazz records that record companies, compiling albums of old-time jazz, often do their research in his library. . . . A new record personality may be Bert Parks, the MC of TV's "Break the Bank." He's cut two sides for ABC-Paramount. . . . Bill Haley's "Rock Around the Clock" is now number one on the Australian hit parade. The kangaroos are jumping.

A bright new star is Dorothy Olsen, whose RCA record of "The Little White Duck" is one of the cutest in a long time. She got her start strangely, because she doesn't own a TV set. Follow this one closely—

Dorothy is a White Plains, N. Y., schoolteacher. Her husband is a commercial fisherman. With no TV set, they sought their evening fun in going to TV programs in New York. And Dorothy got on one, "Name That Tune." While a contestant, she sang "The Little White Duck" and RCA heard her and signed her up.

She is no amateur. She studied classical voice, but gave it up to teach. And she's quite a jazz singer, often going to Greenwich Village and singing jazz and the blues in the small village clubs.

But don't let the kids in her fourth grade class know about that.

Clergyman Summoned

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—The Rev. William Howard Melish has been summoned to court today to show cause why he should not be restrained from entering the Holy Trinity Protestant Episcopal Church in Brooklyn or participating in its services. The application for the restraining order was made by Lewis G. Reynolds, senior warden of the church and spokesman for the majority group of the vestry which opposes the Rev. Mr. Melish's leadership of the split congregation. The clergyman's alleged left-wing activities led to the schism in the congregation seven years ago.

Motorama Opens In New York City

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—General Motors, world's largest industrial corporation, put its products on display for the public Thursday in the 1956 renewal of motorama.

The multi-million dollar presentation was previewed by several thousand guests, including industrial and financial leaders, social and civic personalities.

The public showing, in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, will run through next Tuesday. Then the production takes to the road for showings in Miami, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Boston.

Passenger automobiles of the present and "dream" cars as envisioned by GM engineers as possibilities before 1976 are top features of the show. But there are numerous other attractions like a new "kitchen of tomorrow," a model of GM's aerotrain, household appliances, and engineering and research exhibits, and one of the most fabulous jewel collections in the world.

Top attraction among the "dream" cars was GM's newest Firebird. A gas turbine vehicle, it is designed for normal operation or for radar control. The radar control concept is coupled with operation on what GM engineers call the "safety auto-way," which has an electric conductor strip running down the center. This is the electronic control strip or "the beam."

Other equipment of the Firebird includes a two-way radio and a TV control screen.

Bushnellville

Bushnellville, Jan. 19—The Bushnellville Chamber of Commerce recently held its first business meeting of the new year with Erwin Bier, chairman presiding. Various topics of special interest to the community were discussed and a cash donation to purchase blankets and some other equipment for Shandaken-Allaben Hose Company was approved by the membership.

Alex Weiss was elected publicity chairman to fill the vacancy left by the late William R. Hoffman.

All incumbent officers were re-elected. After adjournment refreshments were served. It was announced that no meeting will be scheduled in February.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Chervy started their vacation by enjoying the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller as dinner guests Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kinscheck are sailing the Atlantic on their journey to visit relatives in Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rossitz entertained Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rossitz of Kingston during the weekend.

8,410 Ride Free
New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—The Long Island Rail Road carries a total of 8,410 free riders a day—including 719 New York city police and firemen—the state Public Service Commission (PSC) has been told. There is no legal compulsion to carry the uniformed men free, however. The Long Island's passenger traffic manager, Henry A. Wise, says the free riders constitute 3.3 per cent of the total passengers on a normal week day. Among the free riders 7,691 are listed as railroad employees.

Workshop Slated On Reading for School Wednesday

A reading workshop will be held at George Washington School Wednesday from 1 to 5 p. m. according to an announcement by Earl Soper, superintendent of schools.

The workshop is being sponsored in cooperation with Ginn and Company, New York city publishers and will be conducted by Miss Elizabeth Sylvester.

Miss Sylvester who received her bachelor's degree from Boston University and her master's degree from University of Maine is a former teacher and has done reading consultant work in Texas, Tennessee, South Carolina, Missouri, Nova Scotia, Connecticut and New York. For the past nine years she has been educational consultant for Ginn and Company in the New England states.

THE PURPOSE of the workshop, according to Miss Frieda Dinges, principal of School 7, who serves as reading committee chairman, will be to acquaint teachers in the use of basic reading materials with special emphasis on word recognition techniques, development of study skills in reading, and phonetic analysis as applied to present day teaching.

Part of the workshop will be spent by the teachers in making devices and aids suitable for classroom use in motivation, maintenance and corrective work with groups and individuals. Invitations to attend the sessions have been extended to members of the Board of Education.

Approves Hald Plan

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 20 (AP)—The State School Boards Assn. has approved the recommendations of the Hald Commission with reservations that they fall short of what the association considers necessary. In a resolution yesterday the association asserted also that the state commission summary report provided no consideration of the future needs of education.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Ninety-five per cent of government business operations, competing against its own taxpayers and businessmen in the Free Enterprise System, shows losses. The Post Office is a prime example. The taxpayers foot the bills.

I believe one exception to this record of losses is the Panama Canal.

Mr. Hutton

I note that a list is being prepared to show who went where, and who accompanied them, during Congressional traveling in the United States and overseas, by ship and plane.

Well, what about free trips on any one of these luxury liners operated by the U.S. Government as part of the Panama Canal System? These ships make 15-day round trips to the Caribbean Sea and the Canal.

A member of Congress can take this trip free, by getting a letter from his Committee Chairman requesting the transportation. And a lot of them go. A vacation at Government expense! If he takes his wife along, the cost is $110. A taxpayer taking the same trip with wife would pay $574 to $1,089, depending on accommodations.

For members of Congress and the Senate, it certainly is health-building and most desirable for them to keep in shape. But, should we, taxpayers, foot the bill?

These vacation trips have gone on for years and years. They are a sort of polite way to influence votes on Capitol Hill when the Panama Canal Company, which owns the ships, is lobbying an appropriation bill through Congress.

I wouldn't say a word about the ethics of all this, but now that Congressmen have voted to almost double their salaries, it would seem that they are as able to pay for a vacation at sea as we, taxpayers, agree, neighbor?

Esopus

Esopus, Jan. 20—The regular meeting of Boy Scout Troop 82 will be held in the firehouse Monday at 7:30 p. m.

Mrs. William Drescher, Sr., is a patient at the Benedictine Hospital.

Mrs. Ed Dittus has asked that all donations for the March of Dimes be returned as soon as possible.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary was held in the firehouse Tuesday night. The following were elected officers for the coming year: Mrs. F. Kurtz, president; Mrs. William Phillips, vice president; Mrs. N. Katatsky, secretary and Mrs. George Ehrbar, treasurer.

The Esopus Fire Department will be held in the firehouse Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

All members of the Ladies' Auxiliary interested in donating blood to the Town of Esopus Blood Bank, sponsored by the Lions Club, are asked to contact Mrs. M. Tsitsera.

The Rev. Boone White will conduct Sunday services in the Methodist Church at 10 a. m.

Sunday school is scheduled at 9:15 a. m.

Sunday Masses in the Sacred Heart Church will be at 8, 10 and 11 o'clock. Novena on Wednesday at 8 p. m., followed by Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. Holy Mass is celebrated every Saturday at 8 a. m.

Thieves Take $280,000

Geneva, Switzerland, Jan. 20 (P)—Police searched through Switzerland and France today for daring thieves who made off with a truck carrying $280,000 worth of gold bars. The truck was found empty in a lane outside Geneva, a mile from the French border. The bullion, owned by a private Swiss firm, was stolen last night after it had arrived by plane from Paris.

Authorities said the 55-pound shipment was loaded on a truck at the Geneva Airport and the driver went to his company's headquarters. He left the truck for a few minutes and when he returned it had disappeared.

You'll find there are about 36 large prunes in a pound.

Briefly Told

ALBANY, Jan. 20 (P)—Att. Gen. Jacob K. Javits holds that a magistrate cannot commit a person to jail with a rubber stamp. He must sign his name.

In an opinion requested by the State Correction Commission, Javits said yesterday that the Code of Criminal Procedure did not allow use of a rubber stamp.

In another opinion, requested by Commerce Commissioner Edward T. Dickinson, Javits held that a provision of the General Municipal Law limiting leases of airports to 10 years applied to entire airports only and not to parts of them.

TROY, Jan. 20 (P)—A policy of weekend jail sentences for fathers convicted of non-support was instituted today by the Rensselaer County Children's Court.

Judge Marcus L. Filley declared that "fakers or phonies" who say they cannot support their children would spend from four to 10 week-ends in jail and maybe vacation periods.

Filley noted yesterday that he could order six-month jail terms. But he said this frequently put the families on relief while the fathers were serving their time.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (P)—Miss Dorothy Williams of the St. Petersburg, Fla., Times and Dan Kidney of the Scripps-Howard newspapers were elected yesterday to the Standing Committee of correspondents.

Here is the vote for the four candidates who competed: Miss Williams, 240; Kidney 190, Alan

S. Emory of the Watertown, N. Y., Times 128 and Don Shannon of the Los Angeles Times 124.

OWEN SOUND, ONT., Jan. 20 (P)—Howard Fleming, publisher of the Owen Sun-Times, died last night after a long illness. He was 73.

Surviving are the widow, a son and two brothers, including Stewart Fleming of Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Unknown Dead Leave

Yokosuka, Japan, Jan. 20 (P)—The first of 852 unknown U. S. dead in the Korean war were placed aboard ship today for Punchbowl Cemetery, Honolulu. Who they are, "God, alone, knows," said Lt. Gen. Charles D. Palmer, army Far East deputy commander. He spoke at a ceremony as the caskets were loaded aboard the cruiser Manchester.

LEGAL NOTICES

The City of Kingston, in Common Council convened, does hereby ordain and enact:

Section 1. Section 7 of an ordinance of the City of Kingston entitled, "AN ORDINANCE TO REGULATE AND RESTRICT THE LOCATION OF TRADES AND INDUSTRIES, AND THE LOCATION OF BUILDINGS DESIGNED FOR SPECIFIC PURPOSES FOR SUCH PURPOSE TO DIVIDE THE CITY INTO DISTRICTS AND TO PRESCRIBE FOR EACH DISTRICT, TRADES AND INDUSTRIES THAT SHALL BE EXCLUDED OR SUBJECT TO SPECIAL REGULATIONS, AND THE USES FOR WHICH BUILDINGS MAY NOT BE ERRECTED OR ALTERED IN THE INTEREST OF THE PROMOTION OF PUBLIC HEALTH, SAFETY AND GENERAL WELFARE, AND THE CONSERVATION OF PROPERTY VALUES," is hereby amended to provide as follows:

Section 7 — INDUSTRIAL DISTRICT USE PROVISIONS.

Within any industrial district, as indicated on the building zone maps, buildings and premises may be used for any purpose hereinbefore specified as permitted in business or residential districts, except as hereinafter expressly excluded. No building or premises shall be used for any trade, industry or purpose that is dangerous to public health or safety. Within any industrial district no building or premises shall be used for any of the following specified purposes:

Acetylene gas manufacture on a commercial scale.

Ammonia, chlorine or bleaching powder manufacture.

Asphalt manufacture or refining.

Coal tar products manufacture.

Crematory.

Cresote treatment or manufacture.

Explosives, fireworks or match manufacture, assembling or storage in bulk.

Glue, size or gelatin manufacture or processes involving recovery from fish or animal offal.

Inclination, reduction or dumping of offal, ashes, garbage or refuse, except where controlled by the municipality.

Lime, gypsum or plaster manufacture.

Linoleum or oil-cloth manufacture.

Ore reduction or the smelting of iron, copper, tin, zinc or lead.

Paint, oil, varnish, turpentine, shellac or enamel manufacture.

Polyvinyl plastic manufacture or the manufacture of articles therefrom.

Rubber or caoutchouc or gutta percha manufacture from crude or scrap material.

Sewage disposal plant, except where controlled by the municipality.

Starch, glucose or dextrine manufacture.

Stock yard.

Tar distillation or the manufacture of dye.

The manufacture of cement, except in the following described area: Bounded north by the boundary of the Town of Ulster, east by the Hudson River, south by lands of the Perry Brick Company and west by a line parallel with the Hudson River and 2800 feet therefrom; and, providing that the manufacture of cement shall be so conducted that no more than 3 grains of solid matter per cubic foot shall be emitted from any stack or other smoke or dust producing unit; and further providing that all blasting operations in connection with the manufacture of cement shall be conducted according to the following rules and regulations:

GENERAL DEFINITIONS

Approved — shall mean approved by the City Engineer of the City of Kingston or his authorized representative.

Engineer — shall mean the City Engineer of the City of Kingston or his authorized representative.

Operator — shall mean the owner of the quarry or the lessee, as applicable.

Shall — where used, shall mean a mandatory requirement.

Should — shall mean an advisory or recommended practice recognized as satisfactory to the Engineer.

SPECIAL DEFINITIONS

Delay Firing — shall mean detonation by approved short period delay caps or equivalent, in effectiveness, or switch.

Primary Blasting — extraction of a mineral volume from the original natural body or bed by the use of explosives; primary blasting shall include toe and seam shooting.

Quarry — open excavations for the extraction of minerals embracing any and all parts of quarry property that contribute directly or indirectly to the extraction of minerals; the term "quarry" shall include prospect openings, pits, banks and open cut workings.

Allowable limits. Allowable limits of ground motion and sound pressure contained in this section shall be considered neither to produce structural damage in any structure that has been reasonably well constructed according to accepted engineering practice nor to constitute a nuisance to persons.

Restrictions on quantity of explosives. All primary shots shall be fired with quantities of explosives not in excess of those permitted by this section and except as further restricted by other requirements of those rules and regulations.

Frequency — amplitude relations. When ground frequency and displacement characteristics in relation to known quantities of detonated explosives in primary blasts have been determined by approved means of instrumentation to the satisfaction of the Engineer the allowable limits of maximum amplitude of ground vibrations related to frequencies of vibration shall be indicated in the following table:

TABLE OF FREQUENCY-AMPLITUDE RELATIONS

Frequency of ground motion in cycles per second	Maximum amplitude of ground motion, in inches
up to 10	not more than 0.0305
20	0.0153
30	0.0102
40	0.0076
50	0.0061
60	0.0051

Allowable quantities of explosives. Without approved methods of instrumentation, the quantities of explosives used in any primary blasting shall not exceed the following:

QUANTITY-DISTANCE TABLE

Distance from blast area to nearest structure, neither quarry owned nor leased, in feet	Maximum quantity of explosives per shot for instantaneous firing or per delay for delay firing, in lbs.	Normal overburden	Abnormal overburden
100*	340	70
200	420	78
300	525	100
400	635	125
500	800	160
600	950	200
700	1175	245
800	1500	300
900	1830	360
1000	2250	430
1200	3500	610
1400	820
1600	1250
1800	1900
2000	3000

* Minimum allowable distance when approved missile protection methods are used.

 More than 50 feet to bedrock.

Variations in quantity-distance relations. When ground motion characteristics for any given quarry operation have been determined by the Engineer, based on instrumentation data submitted by the operator, the allowable quantity-distance relations between amount of explosives used in primary blasting and distance from blast area shall be determined from the accepted results of instrumentation at the given quarry operation for the various weights of explosives. The maximum amplitudes shall not exceed those given in the table of frequency-amplitude relations.

Allowable sound pressure. The maximum allowable sound pressure beyond quarry property lines resulting from quarry blasting shall not exceed 100 decibels.

Section 2. This ordinance shall take effect immediately.

It takes a GIANT to open up new worlds

New markets can be new worlds to advertisers. But advertisers need the powerful services of a giant to open up their new worlds. This giant is the newspaper—a giant who lives in every town.

When sales-wise advertisers set their sights on a market, they use the newspaper to pin-point that market for them much the same way a telescope pin-points stars in the heavens.

Over 55,000,000 newspapers are bought daily by people in all walks of life who yearn to know everything that goes on—around the world and particularly around the corner.

Newspaper advertising is a straight line to sales for retailers, wholesalers and distributors. It moves the merchandise they sell—fast.

In today's competitive market every selling job is a giant selling job. Use a giant to do that job. Use the newspaper.

All business is local... and so are all newspapers.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., Jan. 20—My father used to say to me: "Roger, avoid the words never and always; also do not put dates on your forecasts." In discussing this unpopular subject of Prohibition, I will now observe his advice.

First, let me say I am not forecasting the success of the Prohibition Party as a political factor. Rather, I am forecasting that one, or both, of the major parties will put some form of prohibition in their platforms. The curse of the liquor traffic may be no different now than 25 years ago; but there is one great difference.

IN 1933 WHEN prohibition was overwhelmingly defeated, there were no great industries to put up the funds to continue prohibition, while the great brewers, distillers, and other liquor interests supplied the funds to kill it. Then, however, there were only 20½ million automobiles. Today—with 50 million automobiles—the situation is very different. In the next fight over prohibition, the automotive industry (now the second largest) which includes manufacturers, sales agencies, as well as the owners of property, should heavily support the prohibition cause. And this group is increasing every year as more cars go on the roads. There are now over 225,000 filling stations earning nearly a billion dollars annually.

SAFETY BELTS, compulsory car inspections, canceling of licenses, and even jailing offenders should help prevent accidents or make them less serious. However, none of these things seems to be effective. The main cause of accidents is with the brain of the driver. Hence, the great importance of insisting upon drivers keeping in line and not passing except where specifically permitted.

The basic reason why drivers disobey traffic rules, crossing lines, driving fast, ignoring intersections and signs, is lack of mental control. People are all too willing to take chances. But civilization has progressed by a constant tempering of this instinct to risk, by education, religion, and laws working towards the development of self-control. This is a very important fact which parents and teachers should recognize.

THERE ARE THREE biological effects of drinking: Drinks "pep" one up. Liquor, even in very small amounts, gives people temporary courage to do and say things they otherwise would not; Drinks enable people to forget,—but this means forgetting driving rules as well as troubles; Drinks are habit-forming. No one ever expected to become a slave to drink when he started simple social drinking.

Not only are automobiles increasing every year by several million and the population by about three million, but the age when young people start to drink has lowered. The cocktail party, along with the above-mentioned factors, has made liquor a national problem which must be conquered. It may get worse before prohibition, in some form, returns; but it is a sure forecast that it will return. Perhaps one plan would be to prohibit sales to those holding drivers' license. Even the new four-lane turnpikes do not solve the difficulty, as they develop a "sleepitis."

HOW THE LIQUOR curse will be handled, I do not know. As my friend, Deleware Kings says, it is a problem of the three E's:—Education, Engineering, and Enforcement. The most common suggestion is that we all have a license either to buy liquor or to drive a car. This, however, will not alone solve the cocktail-party danger and the fact that the self-control and judgment of many individuals are not affected by a little liquor—while others are affected almost by the smell of it.

I hope readers will not take this column as propaganda for prohibition, as I believe the person who does not drive a car has a right to drink. However, with 99 being killed each day and one seriously injured every 25 seconds, and these figures constantly increasing, something radical must be done. Also, unless the brewers and distillers themselves "see the handwriting on the wall" and help solve the problem, the securities of such companies face a terrific decline, as happened when prohibition went into effect in 1919.

Pat went to a restaurant on Friday evening with a keen appetite after a hard day's work. Without looking at the bill of fare he said to the waiter: "Pat—Have yez any whale? Waiter (surprised)—No. Pat—Have yez any porpoise or any shark? Waiter—No. Pat—Well, then, bring me a dish of corn, beef and cabbage. 'Tis sure I asked for fish."

The last of the Mississippi steamboat races began June 30, 1870, when the Robert E. Lee and the St. Charles left New Orleans for St. Louis. Crowds gathered along the banks to see the race, won by the Robert E. Lee.

Child, 8, Missing

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—A missing persons alarm was sent out last night for Josephine Rinaldi, eight years old, of (1376 Gates avenue) Brooklyn, whose mother reported she had not been heard from since she left home at 8:50 a. m. yesterday to catch a bus for school. Police said Josephine disappeared after starting for the bus stop, to go to Public School 144, Howard avenue and Prospect Place, where she was a pupil in a special third-grade sight conservation class. Josephine was described as wearing a red and blue hat, red coat, yellow dress with checked hem, and brown shoes. She has black hair and brown eyes, and her two front teeth were missing, police said. She wore glasses.

Middleton and O'Connell Two Of Busiest Actors on Coast

Hollywood, Jan. 20 (AP)—Two of the most popular actors in Hollywood these days are fellows who never set the bobby-soxers afire.

They are Robert Middleton and Arthur O'Connell, character actors who are working more than most stars. Each hit it big with a showy role during the past year—Middleton in “The Desperate Hours” and O'Connell in “Picnic.” They'll be in the running for the supporting Oscar.

THE FRIENDLY contenders are acting in the same film these days, 20th-Fox's “The Proud Ones.” So I dropped out to get a rundown on them.

Middleton is a tall, hulking man of 44, dark, balding and deep-voiced. His size and manner have suited him for heavies, which he has played during 75 per cent of his career.

Like most actors, Middleton has had his struggles, but unlike most of them, he has had an ace in the hole: His family runs a big construction firm in Cincinnati—Frank Messer and Sons, Inc. (His real name is Messer.)

THE COMPANY has built such projects as the 15-million-dollar Terrace Plaza Hotel and the 55-million Wright Aeronautical plant.

“I started in the construction business when I was old enough to wield a shovel,” Middleton said. “But I got the acting disease bad when I was in the First World War and I played a wounded soldier in a play.”

“I acted all through school and went to New York when I got out in 1932. But there were no jobs for actors then, so I went back home.”

HE WORKED in the family business by day and did local theatricals and radio work by night. He got the courage to brave Chicago radio and became a soap opera actor. After war service, he returned to Cincinnati and resumed his double career. But acting won out over building.

“I decided I'd better get it out of my system once and for all,” he said. “I figured if I wasn't ready for New York I never would be.”

So he tried the big town and started clicking in TV and on the stage. After scoring in “Ondine” with Audrey Hepburn, the movie offers came in. He's been working steadily on the sound stages ever since.

Arthur O'Connell is a wry, soft-spoken bachelor of 47 years who claims he never got married because he couldn't afford it. Judging from his testimony, that could be true.

“I'VE HAD LEANER days than most anybody you could name,” he remarked. “I slept in subways and parks and freight cars. I've worked in soda fountains and lunch counters to earn $200 so I could start touring the casting offices again.”

You can see why he appreciates success at his stage in life. But it continues to amaze him. “Once you've had a hit, the directors will give you free rein to do the tricks you have learned over the years,” he observed. “But without a hit, you have to do what they say. I often wonder if I wouldn't have made it much sooner if I had been allowed some freedom.”

BORN in New York and son of the Murray Hill Hotel head waiter, he became an actor by accident at 21. A girl friend was an actress and he toured the casting offices with her. He was offered a job in a Dorchester, Mass., stock company. After eight years in stock and two in vaudeville, he decided to try Broadway.

He virtually starved for years. One year he did six plays, all of them closing out of town. But the following season came “Picnic.” After the film version, he was in. He has done six pictures since and his lean days are over.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

The Ruminator has two headlines to suggest for this article: Limber Up Your Mind . . . and, There Are Three Sides to a Coin.

You'll see the connection in a moment. You've noticed at a school or college ball game how the coach bats the ball around the bases to limber up the infield, before the team gets down to the business of scoring runs, hits, put-outs, and errors.

You can limber up your mind in the same way, by tossing ideas back and forth. Countless creative ideas have been originated by one idea bringing to mind another. Alex Osborn, the advertising man, has written a book on this “brain-storming” program, which creative workers find workable and practicable.

IF YOU TRY this workout for your brain, try throwing in some contrary ideas to upset any stagnancy that occurs. There is nothing like disagreements to bring out fresh ideas. Every now and then, Major L. L. B. Angas (noted English economic writer) and this writer have a set-to on exchanging ideas. We challenge each other's theories and generally bat the ball around; “bat the breeze,” as the expression is. (By the way, Major Angas has written a series of pamphlets on “Capitalism” which go far to defeat the arguments of the liberals and leftists in our midst, who would have the “government” control our destinies and underwrite our economy every time something goes wrong. His “Capitalist Manifesto,” and current writings on politico-economic affairs, are extremely worthwhile and timely. If you care to inquire further, I shall see that he receives any communication you direct to him, in care of the Ruminator, at this newspaper.)

As I was saying, Major Angas and I occasionally bat ideas around in an effort to limber up our minds. THE OTHER EVENING, we were discussing the contrary thought that one must examine both sides of the coin—not just the tail or the head. “Wait a moment,” interposed the Major; “we have three sides to examine, not just two.” And of course he was right. There is an edge to a coin, as well as two sides.

Phoenicia, Jan. 19—A surprise party was tendered Walter Peck on his 21st birthday January 13. Twenty-one guests were present including Mrs. Fox and family; Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Lane and family of Lanesville; Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Finley and son of West Shokan and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Winchell of Phoenicia. Refreshments were served and games were played.

Cage Games Listed Woodstock, Jan. 20—The Woodstock Elementary School basketball team will play Hurley at Hurley in a league game, Friday, Jan. 20, at 3:30 p. m. On Saturday at 10 a. m., the Woodstock Seventh and Eighth Graders will play Saugerties Seventh and Eighth Graders at the Woodstock School. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Pepers Lose Two Woodstock, Jan. 20—Pepers Garage lost two games out of three to the Saugerties American Legion Post bowling in the A league at the Saugerties Bowling Academy. The Legion scored 810-902-826, and Pepers' 864-787-797. Individual scores for the Legion were: Swart 166-139; Emerick 147-186-220; Nixon 150-151-155; Whithead 162-214-136; Farrell 182-185-176. Individual scores for Pepers were: Holdridge 198-160-176; Morrell 145-168-159; K. Harder 176-133-143; V. Busch 150-156-147; C. Harder 178-149-158.

IF YOU WANT A TRUE FRIEND THAT WILL ALWAYS RESPOND TO YOUR MONEY PROBLEMS, USE THE FREEMAN CLASSIFIED ADS. PHONE 5000 TODAY.

Moreover, when you allow your mind to ruminate over this thought, you see a coin standing on its edge. You then immediately think of “balance,” do you not? Then—to pursue the train of thought—doesn't your mind roam over the suggestion that you have to strike a balance between the “arguments” which appear on the two faces of the coin?

It seemed to me, as we batted the ball around, that in this one simple idea which bounced out of our chat, we had struck upon a positive method to use when weighing common opinions, and between fallacies and sound conclusions.

At times, I grant you, considerations on a given subject are so confused that you are not able at once to pin down the tail or head arguments. But as I have dared to write in other columns, it is far better to admit bewilderment until you have thought a subject through, than to be dogmatic and jump to (erroneous) conclusions. I believe that more errors in judgment arise from thoughtless dogmatic opinions than from initial bewilderment that leads to applied thinking-through (if, that is, you have disciplined your mind to think through puzzling problems).

THE RUMINATOR has been pleased that others agree with this idea of not being upset if you have “confused considerations” to deal with occasionally. The Editor of the famed Journal of Commerce referred to the idea when he was recently writing about the countless forecasts being presented to us at this time of year. He said that one may be forgiven if he gets slightly confused trying to read the varying predictions. “Perhaps this is all to the good,” he added, then kindly referring to my suggestion that there is value in bewilderment because it causes more thorough thinking.

Also I was particularly taken with a remark by Harry T. Saylor, of the Philadelphia Daily News, who paid me the compliment of editorializing on this thought of “confused considerations.” His ending was wonderful: “Maybe it's better to be bewildered and do nothing than to be cocksure and fall on your face.”

So, in looking at a coin, decide whether it will fall on its face and turn up its tail, or the other way around.

Visitor Says Chinese Living Standard Higher

Hong Kong, Jan. 20 (AP)—A British professor says the mainland Chinese lead drab lives but seem to have a higher standard of living than in pre-Communist days.

After a three-week tour of the mainland, Prof. E. Stuart Kirby of Hong Kong University says his observations make him agree with Sir Winston Churchill that communism is “an equal sharing of squalor.”

HE SAID that although the Chinese Communists tried to impress upon foreign visitors their desire for peace, he had never seen so many soldiers as in Red China.

Kirby, a specialist on Asian affairs, made his expenses-paid visit with a group of Hong Kong University professors as guests of the Communist-controlled People's Assn. for Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries. Apparently a major reason for arranging the tour, Kirby said in a lecture, was to open up tourist trade and show that Communist China is safe, interesting and reasonably comfortable.

He said considerable new building has been completed—in a non-descript, characterless “baracks-like” architecture. Earlier attempts at making buildings more comfortable were abandoned in the name of economy, he reported.

OTHER KIRBY findings: Despite rationing, there appeared to be no food shortages and no signs of malnutrition. Clothing, though rationed and drab, seems sufficient.

There is solid progress in industrialization. New big projects, such as the giant Anshan steel works and the No. 1 machine tool plant at Mukden, were donated by the Russians.

Russian technicians in industry have been withdrawn generally and replaced by Russian-trained Chinese personnel. Since the visit was made in winter, the visitors saw little of agricultural conditions. They did not see a single tractor, except at an exhibition, and very little farm machinery.

Dummy's Trump Loses Power

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The bidding in today's hand was aggressive, but the final contract was eminently reasonable. South should certainly expect to make his game in spades against anything less than inspired defense.

Unfortunately for South, the defense was inspired when the hand was played. West reasoned that dummy was quite short in hearts and that declarer would plan to ruff in the dummy. In order to limit dummy's ruffing power, West opened the ace of spades and continued with another spade.

Dummy held the second trick with the jack of spades, and declarer naturally returned the low heart from the dummy, at the third trick. East now demonstrated that he could be as effective as his partner. He rose with the king of hearts, holding the trick. This enabled him to lead a third trump, thus exhausting dummy's trumps.

Now South was limited to nine tricks. He could take four trump tricks, four diamonds, and a club, but that was all.

If East had failed to rise with the king of hearts, West would

Women Must Know How to Earn Living, Says College Dean

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor Today's young women need something more than a knowledge of how to be charming. Dean Eleanor Tupper, of Endicott Junior College, in Beverly, Mass., thinks it's a big help if they also know how to earn a living.

Dean Tupper is the wife of a Lutheran minister, the Rev. George O. Bierkoe, who also happens to be president of the college, and who is heartily in accord with her determination that their two small daughters, Priscilla and Barbara, are going to learn how to earn a living by the time they are through college.

This husband-and-wife team runs the small New England college strictly on the basis of helping students get practical training for careers. A requirement for graduation is one month each year spent in actual work on a job.

"Every December we send the girls out in the business world in the various fields of their choice," says Dean Tupper. "They go into stores, newspapers, television and radio stations, advertising agencies, photography studios, theatres, schools, nurses, hospitals, practically every kind of business or professional field you could mention."

"We don't have any trouble finding jobs for the girls. People seem eager to give them a chance. And sometimes a girl will be so efficient in her trial job that she goes back on a permanent basis after graduation." The college includes the usual arts and science courses in its curriculum, so that girls can go on to accredited universities if they desire. But many students start on their working careers immediately after the two-year course at Endicott.

"The girl who spends her college years merely in studying the liberal arts and in acquiring poise and manners is ill equipped for today's world," says Dean Tupper. "It is tragic, I think, to see the thousands of young women who are graduated each year from our colleges with no practical training in any field, and not the vaguest idea of how to earn a living."

Dean Tupper came to Endicott when it was founded in 1939, after previously serving at Lindenwood College, near St. Louis, Mo., and at Columbia University in New York. She subsequently married Dr. Bierkoe and the two have been helping their students choose a career ever since.

"We try to keep in contact with the business and professional world," says Dean Tupper, "so that our girls can have contacts with the people who are going places and doing things. About half the girls know what they want to do when they enroll, and we help the others select a field through aptitude tests and through the trial training periods."

"We have found that even the girls who get married immediately after graduation usually work for at least a year or two after marriage. In today's economic structure, it usually is necessary."

"The day of the beautiful drone is past, and most modern women have to be able to pull their own weight."

Concerning "Party Calls"

A reader writes me as follows: "It seems to me that in the present day, people are becoming very careless about calling their hosts to thank her for a lovely time after having been invited to a party at her house. This is instinctive with me. When I have had a pleasant evening at a friends house, I do not feel satisfied until I have called her and told her how much I enjoyed the evening though I intend to return her invitation as soon as I can. Will you please tell me what the proper procedure is today regarding 'party calls'?"

To make a point of calling the hosts to thank her for her hospitality is certainly not an obligation. In fact, if every guest called the hosts the day after a party, she would have little time to do anything else but answer the telephone and instead of it being a pleasure she would find it a great nuisance. To thank your hosts when you leave and to return her invitation if you can, is the only requirement.

Brother or Brother-in-law

Dear Mrs. Post: I am living with my married sister and her husband. The invitations to my wedding are being sent out in their names. The problem facing me at the present time is who should give me away. I have an older married brother. Is it his duty to give me away or should my brother-in-law whom I live with and in whose name will appear on the invitations, give me away?

Answer: Considering that you live with your brother-in-law and his name will appear on your invitations, everyone would understand his giving you away. Whereas bringing your own brother in might be thought a repudiation of your brother-in-law.

May Bridegroom's Parents ..

Announce Marriage?

Dear Mrs. Post: My son was recently married overseas to an Austrian girl. Will you please tell me how I can let our friends and relatives know of this marriage? Also, would it be proper to send a notice to the newspaper?

Answer: You could send out engraved announcements of your son's marriage to friends and relatives living here. A notice could also be sent to the newspaper.

Is classical or popular music played for the wedding reception? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. Leaflet E-2, "Formal Wedding Procedure," includes details. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c/o The Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Officers Are Named By First Baptists At Annual Meeting

Reelection of line officers and the election of new deaconesses, trustees and deacons took place during the annual business meeting of the First Baptist Church in the church parlor Thursday night.

The business meeting followed a covered dish supper and an interesting talk by the Rev. Dr. Stanley B. Hazzard, executive secretary of the New York Baptist City Society. Dr. Hazzard used as his subject, "Doors."

Re-elected were: Charles L. Arnold, church moderator; Edward Safford, church clerk; Miss Ethel M. Hull, church school superintendent; Mrs. Harry Klotz, treasurer of benevolences and Irwin J. Thomas, financial secretary. Elected to the board of deaconesses were Miss Lucinda Healy, Miss Emma Gumaer and Mrs. Irwin J. Thomas who will serve three years.

Deacons elected for three-year terms were William W. Brady, Jr., David Smith and Norman Bowen. William Williams was elected for a two-year term.

Members of the girls' choir offered a selection following the supper meal which was in charge of members of Circles 3 and 4.

The Rev. Nelson C. Munson, interim pastor, gave the invocation.

Veteran Benefits Free of Taxes Shurter Advises

Payments to veterans for benefits administered by the Veterans Administration are tax-free and need not be considered in computing Federal income tax, Director Howard Shurter of the local Veterans Service Agency reminded veterans today.

Mr. Shurter added that dividends which veterans have received on their GI insurance policies are also exempt from taxation and need not be reported as income.

Among the tax-exempt VA payments are the following:

Education and training allowances for post-Korea veterans enrolled in schools and training establishments under the Korean GI Bill.

Subsistence payments made to disabled World War 2 and Korean veterans training under Public Law 16, the Vocational Rehabilitation Act.

Subsistence allowances paid to World War 2 veterans training under the original World War 2 GI Bill.

Disability compensation and pensions received by veterans because of service-connected and non-service-connected disabilities.

Grants to seriously disabled veterans for homes designed for "wheelchair living."

Grants for motor vehicles to veterans who lost their sight or lost the use of their limbs.

World War 1 emergency officers' retirement pay.

Death benefits to families of deceased veterans also are exempt from taxation. These include compensation, pension and all other GI insurance payments.

Byrd Opposes

Byrd urged apple growers in New York state not to seek federal subsidies for either canned or fresh apples.

"If we have overproduction, let's get rid of it ourselves," he said. "Let's remain free Americans. We might make some mistakes, but I would rather make my own mistakes than have someone in Washington make them for me."

The senator himself is one of the leading apple growers. He said he grew 1,500,000 bushels on his Virginia farm last year.

Byrd did not comment directly on the Eisenhower-Benson farm program in his speech or at an earlier news conference.

When pressed for comment on the proposed farm soil bank, however, he replied:

"I don't think we've got any money for new adventures."

He said, also, that he thought Secretary of Agriculture Benson was making "a sincere effort to solve a very great problem."

Byrd said his committee would study the Republican farm program fully before deciding whether to grant the money needed to carry it out.

"I haven't been able to form any conclusions on the Eisenhower farm program," he said.

The Horticulture Society elected Abram Van Alstyne, of Kinderhook, president to succeed Willis Phillip of Burt.

L. B. Skeffington of Rochester, agriculture editor of the Ganett newspapers, was named lifetime honorary president of the society.

In a resolution, the society said Skeffington had "rendered invaluable service to the society over a period of many years."

DeKay Chosen

reported on the community service the "Y" is offering by permitting various other groups the use of the hall for a meeting place.

Mr. Rylance before vacating the chair to the new president expressed his thanks to the members of the board for their fine cooperation during his two terms. In his expression of gratitude he included the three employed staff members. Although leaving his office as president, Mr. Rylance said that he would continue to devote his time to the association with his active membership on the board.

The newly elected president, Mr. DeKay announced his intentions of continuing the excellent work of the past and asked for the complete cooperation of all board members and the many committees in order to make 1956 a banner year in promoting the work of the Kingston YMCA.

seated at random. The doors will open at 6:45 p. m.

This year two types of tickets have been sold. As announced in the letter of invitation mailed to all members on December 13 the first 300 tickets sold will be honored in the main dining rooms. These are white tickets. The remainder are blue tickets and will be honored only in the lounge. All persons with white tickets will be asked to show their ticket at the door before entering the dining room. Arrangements will be made for those seated in the lounge for the meal to transfer to the Junior dining room for the program.

This is the first banquet since the re-organization of the Chamber of Commerce in 1945 that all available tickets were sold in advance.

AIRFORCE SINGING CHAMPS IN POLIO SHOW — The Airchords, who have been singing together three years in some 13 states, will be featured with the Review in Blue from the Sampson base at the March of Dimes Variety Show at the Kingston High School Auditorium Monday, Jan. 23 at 8 p. m. They have appeared in leading theatres and hotels throughout the country and performed outstandingly on the Don McNeil Breakfast Club TV show in Chicago. The quartet won the world-wide Air Force Barber-shop Quartet Contest in June, 1955. (L-R) Rick Wilson, Frank Williams, Phil Schwarz and Otto Karbusicky.

Review in Blue

Dimes in the past deserve a lot of credit," he said. "Volunteers have been generous with their services. We appreciate their efforts and talent."

Harry Maisenhelder's orchestra has been engaged to play the show, which means, Director Oulton says, "there will be the usual excellent accompaniment by our own local musicians."

THE EMCEE detail will be shared by a Kingston favorite, Dick McCarthy, ace announcer and Don Fitzpatrick of the Air Force, talented young comedian. Both are former radio announcers who have introduced celebrities of the entertainment world and prominent figures in all walks of life.

McCarthy has been a fixture in March of Dimes efforts for a long time, having added color, zip and a real professional air to the Parade of Bands in past years.

Press notices on Fitzpatrick say: "His new slant on humor will keep you in stitches throughout his entire program."

Buddy Allen, male, vocalist with the Air Force show, a professional entertainer for five years, has been on TV, and appeared at the Gay Parade in Chicago, the Flamingo and Boston Harbor in Boston, Town Casino, Buffalo and the Round House and Irving's in New York.

A POPULAR instrumental ensemble in the Review in Blue the Skytones is made up of Joe Best, Jim Biddinger, Harry Carney and Paul Dion, a quartet that has played around the entire sector of the nation.

The Airchords have vocalized around the country, appearing in some of the biggest clubs, theatres and on TV. They are Rick Wilson, Frank Williams, Phil Schwarz and Otto Karbusicky. While in Florida the Airchords won the worldwide Air Force barbershop quartet contest in June of 1955.

Lee Maynard, outstanding young pianist from Wisconsin, won the Libera piano award contest while studying the instrument at University of DePaul in Chicago. TV Guide magazine sent him to New York to play on the Arthur Godfrey show and he appeared with Libera at Madison Square Garden.

The Bob Sanders Trio presents a program of western music with spicy comedy. Bob plays the guitar, Dick Chaffin, fiddle and Roy Fox steel guitar. Bob had his own radio show in Paducah, Ky. The trio has played in that state, Tennessee, Ohio and New York.

Director Oulton's lineup of local talent is as follows:

Carolyn Burtowski, singer; Raymond Palen, guitarist; Marion and Sally Dance Studio; Tommy Tierney, piano accordionist; Stuart Werner, pianist; Barbara Mertis, singer; Cashin School of Dancing; Blossom School of Dancing; Sandra Beuhring, vocalist; Geraldine DiPeri, vocalist; Immaculate Conception Glee Club, Blanche Dance Studio, Mary and Bud Dance Studio, Betty Bunch and Kathleen Mehm, acrobats.

Rehearsal is scheduled Sunday at 2 p. m. in St. Mary's School Hall, Broadway and McEntee street. All volunteer entertainers are urged to be present.

the Ulster County Savings Institution is occupying temporary quarters at 52 Main street, next to the uptown branch post office.

REJECTED to office to serve with President Boice were: John H. Saxe, Arthur G. Carr and Herbert E. Thomas, vice presidents; Victor H. Roth, treasurer; Joseph A. Fassbender, assistant treasurer; S. Maxwell Taylor, teller; George L. Berry, assistant teller and Roger H. Loughran, attorney.

All of the trustees were re-elected: Chester A. Baltz, Sr., Harry J. Beatty, Pratt Boice, Harold S. Brigham, Arthur G. Carr, Supreme Court Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth, Attorney Roger H. Loughran, John H. Saxe, Alfred Schmid, James A. Simpson, Howard R. St. John and Herbert E. Thomas.

A FINANCIAL report presented at the annual meeting showed 1955 to have been a very successful year.

During the past year the mortgage portfolio increased $3,087,899.60 from $7,867,269.72 in 1954 to $10,955,169.32 in 1955. Poughkeepsie Man Is Hurt at Highland

A Poughkeepsie man was slightly injured in a one-car accident at 3:30 a. m. today at Highland, according to Highland State Police.

Victor Cardarella, 25, of 394 Church street, suffered a bruised left knee and told troopers he would receive treatment at Vassar Brothers Hospital, Poughkeepsie.

Mr. Cardarella was one of three passengers in a 1955 sedan owned and operated by Louis Frank Rushane, 24, of 20 Innis avenue, Poughkeepsie. No one else in the car was injured, the troopers reported.

Troopers said the Rushane car was headed south on Route 9W about 500 feet below the viaduct bridge when it went into a spin and struck an embankment on the east side of the highway. Troopers said it was snowing and slippery at the time of the accident.

Little Snow Marks Winter to Date

This winter, to date, as winters go in this region, has been comparatively snowless — cross fingers, and knock wood.

Only 11 and one quarter inches has been recorded by the city engineer's office until this date, and if the season is consistent to the end, it could equal or top the winter of 1954-55 when only 22 inches of snow fell.

MOST OF LAST winter's snow came in February when nearly a foot of snow fell, and this year, to date, January has been the heavy month with five and a quarter inches. Last December had 3 1/2 inches and November had 2 1/2 inches.

Only an inch of snow fell in January, 1955, and most of the rest of the 22 inches fell in the February-March end of the winter.

THE THEFTS represented a total estimated loss of $16,860.47, and the total of recoveries was valued at $7,578.91.

Detectives investigated 17 cases involving children under 16 years old. Five of these went to children's court, one was referred to a probation officer and returned to a corrective institution. In 1954 in the city 34 cases of juvenile delinquency were filed for children's court, and last year only five went to that court.

PROMOTED last year was Sgt. Robert F. Murphy to a lieutenant, and Francis Fagan, Carl Janasiewicz and Thomas Tomshaw to sergeants.

Appointed to the regular force were Gilbert Gray, Joseph Keller and Albert Hutton. Lost through retirement were Lt. James P. Martin, who retired last March 31, and Patrolman Earl Schoonmaker, who retired last July 1.

Four officers lost through resignation were Crawford Millham, who resigned April 15, Harold Bowers, resigned July 1, William Norton, resigned Dec. 24, and Hydract Armstrong, resigned Dec. 24.

OF THOSE injured in traffic mishaps last year, 160 were hurt in 100 mishaps involving two or more vehicles, 23 were pedestrians, 11 accidents involved bicycles, 19 vehicles ran off roadways, injuring 26, one was a non-collision mishap, and another involved the collision of a vehicle and a fixed object.

Highest number of arrests in a single month last year was 134 in July. Next highest was August with 131. May had 110 and November 95. Lowest for the year was 51 in January. February was next lowest with 52.

ARRESTS LAST month totaled 74, and the chief's report for the month showed 16 persons hurt in 10 traffic mishaps. Of last month's arrests 22 were for public intoxication, 20 for disorderly conduct and 12 for violation of the city traffic code. Six arrests were made on charges of third degree assault, and two each for forgery second degree, juvenile delinquency, and petit larceny. One arrest was made for second degree assault and one for driving while intoxicated.

The police department as listed up to Dec. 31, 1955 consisted of the chief, three lieutenants, six sergeants, two detectives and 34 patrolmen.

Negligence Case Is Given to Jury

Testimony was concluded Thursday afternoon in the negligence action brought by Robert D. Williams against Wilhelm E. Zobel and another and the case was submitted to the jury today. Daniel Becker was attorney for plaintiff and Earl H. Houghtaling for defendant.

Announced as settled was a negligence action brought by Samuel Nogid against Mason B. Grant. Lawrence Levine for plaintiff and Cook and Cook for defendant. An assault case brought by Ward Harrington against Claude Stark was also settled. Rusk and Rusk for plaintiff and Greenwald, Kovner and Goldsmith for defendant.

The grand jury, now in session, is scheduled to report to Justice Kenneth MacAffer next Tuesday.

Area CC Slates Meeting Monday On Rehab Center

Individuals, as well as interested organization and agency representatives, are invited to a conference at 8 o'clock Monday night, at which the need and possibilities of establishing a sheltered workshop or industrial rehabilitation center in Ulster county will be considered.

The conference, sponsored by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, will be held in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

A Chamber of Commerce spokesman said that this will be an exploratory meeting and the group will be asked to decide upon any further steps to be taken.

Many communities have self-supporting sheltered workshops to provide work and training for physically handicapped persons. There is also a very wide variation in the form of organization. All persons interested are urged to attend and be prepared to express their opinions regarding the need for such a center and how the desired results can best be accomplished.

Bottle With Picture Back After 38 Years

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Jan. 20 (AP)—Theo Sall put his picture in a bottle and tossed it into the sea. He can't remember where or how. It is coming back 38 years later.

It must have happened on the way over or on the way back" during World War I, he said last night. "We left New York and sailed to Bordeaux, France. I'm 56 now. Thirty-eight years is a long time. I just don't remember it." Sall now is a fireman.

He had enclosed a note with the picture asking the finder to send it to Ann Wajda at Depew, N. Y., a suburb of Buffalo. The crusty old bottle washed up on the sand of Cape Henry, Va., on Jan. 10.

Linwood Pearson of Norfolk, Va., found the bottle and turned it over to postal authorities. They traced Ann, now Mrs. Sall, to Niagara Falls.

Cracks Ice Record

Davos, Switzerland, Jan. 20 (AP)—A 25-year-old Russian student cracked the world 1,500 meter speed skating record today in giving the Soviet Union its third championship in as many days in the Swiss international tournament. Jurij Michalov, racing against the clock, swept the metric mile in 2 minutes 9.1 seconds to cut seven-tenths of a second off the mark set a year ago by teammate Eugenij Grishin at Lake Alama Ata in Russia.

MASONS ENCOURAGED TO BE ACTIVE—At a dinner meeting Thursday evening in the Kirkland Hotel, Supreme Court Justice Kenneth S. MacAffer of Albany, a past master of the lodge in his city, complimented members of the Ulster County Shrine Club for their charitable projects in the area and encouraged all members of Masonic orders to be active in their fraternal programs. Principals at the dinner were (l-r)

Attorney Joseph Avis, president of the Shrine Club; Herbert C. Myers, local electrical contractor, past president; Justice MacAffer, the guest speaker, and Dr. Irving J. Josephson, medical director of the Kingston school system, first vice president. Eighty-five Shriners heard Justice MacAffer's talk in which he reminisced about his long association with Ulster county as an attorney, a Mason and as a presiding Supreme Court justice. Davitt, Merritt Next For Old Timer Honors

Annual Dinner Set February 9

Old Timers Baseball Association of Kingston will honor Thomas M. "Tommy" Davitt and Jimmy Merritt, two of the finest athletes in local sports history, in their sixth annual banquet.

The dinner will be held on Thursday, Feb. 9, at Tommie's Tavern, and is open to the public, it was decided at last night's meeting of the OTBA at Cuneo's.

Invitations to speak at the dinner will be extended to Bill Grieve of Yonkers, former major league umpire; and Buck Ewing, fabled catcher of the Chappie Johnson All Stars and Mohawk Giants in the original Kingston Colonial era.

MAYOR JESS Collyear of Ossining, supervisor of the Brooklyn Dodgers umpire staff at Vera Beach, Fla., was last year's speaker.

Davitt, now an insurance agent and Merritt, an employee of the Central Hudson, were teammates for several years with John McCord's Kingston All Stars and other area organizations.

Merritt also gained considerable fame as a basketball player, while at one time Davitt was one of the most prominent basketball officials in the mid-Hudson region.

In being selected for the OTBA's annual awards, Davitt and Merritt join a distinguished array of former local baseball stars.

IN THE PAST five years the Old Timers have honored Bernard A. "Bud" Culliton, John McCord, Hank Cragan, James Volker, the late Eddie Scherer, Carl "Dutch" Glaser, Joseph "Kid" Moore, Joe Hoffman and others.

Election of officers will be held at the banquet. Present officers of the organization are Charles J. Tiano, president; James Volker, vice-president; John Hartman, secretary-treasurer.

Membership in the Old Timers is restricted to former baseball players 40 years of age or over.

Gil Turner 3-1 Pick Over La Bua

Syracuse, Jan. 20 (AP)—Free-swinging Gil Turner of Philadelphia is a 3-1 choice to make it two straight over Jackie La Bua of East Meadow, N. Y., in their return 10-rounder at War Memorial Auditorium tonight.

The bout will be broadcast and telecast coast to coast (NBC radio-TV, 10 p. m., EST).

La Bua, 23, is substituting for virus-stricken Gene Fullmer. Jackie quickly accepted the substitute role in hopes of evening his score with the 25-year-old tested veteran middleweight.

TURNER GAINED a split decision over La Bua in their first meeting here Dec. 14. The judges voted for Gil 5-4-1 and 6-3-1 while the referee called it a draw.

"I'll do better this time," said La Bua. "I only had two other fights in 1955 before I met Turner and I needed the work."

The handsome, strongly-built ex-gob has a 25-7 won-lost record with three knockouts to his credit. Turner, who has faced the best of the welterweight and middleweight division, has a 49-10-1 record with 33 kayos.

Turner, 25, will spot La Bua about five pounds. For their first scrap, Gil weighed 154½ to Jackie's 159.

Hill to Quit Trojan Post

Los Angeles, Jan. 20 (AP)—This will be Jess Hill's last year as football coach at the University of Southern California.

He will succeed Willis O. Hunter as Director of Athletics in August, 1957, when Hunter reaches the mandatory retirement age of 65.

President Fred D. Fagg, Jr., announced the future athletic setup at a news conference late yesterday.

Hill obviously will have a hand in the naming of his successor as head coach but Dr. Fagg said: "We have talked to none about a coaching job at the university."

Hill has been under fire frequently as grid coach. Last year his Trojans lost to Washington, Minnesota, Stanford and UCLA.

But rebounded for a sensational upset victory over Notre Dame.

Colgate, Cornell Tied in Big Three

(By The Associated Press)

Colgate and Cornell stood tied behind Syracuse for Big Three basketball honors today as a result of Colgate's 76-62 victory over Cornell last night.

Hack Nichols, who sank 26 points, paced the Red Raiders to their victory at Hamilton. It offset an earlier loss to Cornell.

In other upstate action last night, unbeaten Plattsburgh State Teachers made Ethan Allen Air Force Base its 11th victim of the season 81-76. Murray Bullock, with 26 points, was high man for the victors, who have not lost a home game since February, 1952.

Cornell and Colgate duelled in the first half, which ended with Colgate leading 37-36. But then the Raiders broke out. Irv Roberson sank 24 points to pace Cornell.

PLAYERS QUIT — Jimmy Peck, right, a junior starting player, was one of five University of Oklahoma basketball players who quit the team and left school Jan. 18. The five said they had lost their confidence, and were not getting any fun out of playing. Coach Doyle Parrack, left, in his first year at the university in Norman, Okla., said he thought it best the boys quit because of their attitude. (AP Wirephoto).

Questioning the authenticity of program material on a TV production as popular and ponderous as Omnibus appears to be a frightening step, indeed.

But a coterie of Al Melville friends are willing to challenge Alistair Cook and the Omnibus historians. Mr. Melville, you may or may not know, happens to be the greatest swimmer ever developed in the Kingston area.

During a recent Omnibus feature involving Esther Williams, who swims almost as well as Mr. Melville, but is nicer to look at, the eminent Yale swimming coach, Bob Kipputh, made the assertion that a Herman Myers of Brooklyn originated the so-called butterfly stroke in 1933.

Al's numerous friends who signed a statement insist Mr. Kipputh has his dates and personalities mixed up.

Melville, they claim, was teaching the butterfly stroke, as early as 1925 when his swimming exploits were delighting the area. Among his hundreds of pupils was the late Leonard Spence, who learned the butterfly stroke from Mel in 1932, and went on to become a world famous swimmer.

The list of names on the Melville affidavit is an impressive one. They were all active in swimming circles around Mel's heyday.

Meantime, I say there, Alistair, old boy. Did you fluff one?

Flotsam and Jetsam:

Billy Harrell, the former Siena College basketball star, appears to be a cinch to take over the shortstop post for the Cleveland Indians this year. Called up from Indianapolis late in 1954, Harrell played 13 games at shortstop and batted .421 for the Indians.

Distinguished sports visitor due in Kingston in next few days: Jack Kramer, former national champion, and promoter of the Trabert-Gonzales stopover here on Jan. 29. . . . Mr. George Mikan, the greatest basketball player in history, returns to New York tomorrow afternoon for the Knicks-Lakers game at 69th Regiment Armory. Mikan is staging a comeback, having "retired" on Sept. 24, 1954. In eight pro seasons (the first with the Chicago Bears), the 6-10 "Mr. Basketball" racked up 11,376 points in 483 games for an average of 23.5. In addition, he holds the NBA single season scoring record of 1,532 chalked up in the 1950-51 campaign and his average per game mark of 28.4 that year is also a record. He was named the Basketball Player of the Half Century in the AP poll.

Of Men and Mice:

Bob Bondar, hitting 20 points from the outside in some new Oneonta State strategy, is having a terrific season with the cagers hard by Otsego Lake. . . . Regional Little League meeting in Albany last week failed to shake area sentiment and support for Carl Stotz, the former Commissioner and father of Little League. . . . Louise Cassese is tossing her annual venison party for hunters, skiers and fishermen Saturday night at the Phoenixia Hotel. . . . Pierre Langlois owns a large restaurant on the Normandy coast and will announce his retirement any day now. . . . Hudson Valley League statistics have resumed that old Jones Dairy tinge, with John Ferraro and son tied at 279 in the solo department; Jackie sporting a 751 and the Dairymen pacing the teams with 1125 and 3215. . . .

Blue Devils Win, Feldmans Stop McCardles, 41-34

Blue Devils held off a desperate fourth period rally by Lawson and Powell to score a 39-35 win in the Recreation Junior Basketball League last night.

In the companion piece, Feldmans tripped McCardles, 41-34.

DAVE LEVY rimmed 19 points to pace the blue Devils. Hal Dawson rimmed 20 for the losers.

Kelly's 23 points paced Feldman's to their 41-34 triumph over McCardles. Uhl canned 14 for McCardles.

Russian Skater Sets Record

Davos, Switzerland, Jan. 20 (AP)—Jurij Michailov, Russian speedster, set a 1,500-meter world's skating record of 2:09.1 on the fast Davos track today. His time beat the old record of 2:09.8 set a year ago at Lake Alma Ata in Russia by his team mate Eugenij Grishin. Grishin is not here today.

Michailov, as a result of his record time, swept into first place early in the 1,500 competition on the Swiss international speed skating competition—a major preview to the 1956 winter Olympics starting next week.

He led the Russian team in Olympic qualifying trails at Moscow several weeks ago with a 2:18 in the 1,500.

Patty Berg's 71 Four Under Par

Tampa, Fla., Jan. 20 (AP)—Veteran Patty Berg held a one stroke lead over young Mickey Wright with the second round coming up today in the $5,000 Tampa Women's Open golf tournament.

Popular Patty, woman Athlete of the Year for 1955, clipped four strokes off par with a 71 and could have done better than that except for some erratic putting.

PUTTING also hurt Miss Wright, from San Diego, Calif. She lost a chance to tie for the lead by three-putting No. 18.

High winds bothered most of the field of 121. Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., co-favored with Miss Berg, took 80 for the tricky 6,307-yard Palma Ciega course and was well down the list.

The only other players to match par 75 were Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S. C., and Fay Crocker from Montevideo, Uruguay.

Red Wings Ride On Howe's Tail

(By The Associated Press)

The saying in the National Hockey League the past few seasons has been "as Gordie Howe goes, so go the Detroit Red Wings."

And because Howe is on a whirlwind scoring tear, the Red Wings are heading upward in the standings.

TODAY, the Detroit sextet was only two points behind the second-place New York Rangers and if they continue to improve the Red Wings still have time to catch the pace-setting Montreal Canadiens who are 10 points ahead of New York.

The Wings downed the Boston Bruins 4-2 last night while the Canadiens knocked over the Toronto Maple Leafs 3-1.

Howe scored three goals—the first Red Wing hat trick of the campaign—and assisted on the other by Ted Lindsay to take the league's scoring lead with 50 points.

Helfand Blasts NBA For Inconsistency

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—Julius Helfand has thrown down the gauntlet to the National Boxing Assn.

The chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, blasted the NBA last night for a resolution by its executive committee that would permit a boxer to sign for a fight himself when his manager is under suspension.

Speaking at the annual dinner of the Boxing Writers Assn., Helfand termed the resolution "sheer hypocrisy."

"You know," he said turning toward Lou Radzienda, president of NBA, "that after a fight the fighter will go back to his hotel and whack up the purse with his suspended manager."

RADZIENDA, a member of the Illinois State Athletic Commission who had praised Helfand's campaign against the undesirable in the sport just before Helfand rose to speak, said later:

"We believe the fighter comes before the manager. Just because his manager is under suspension or doesn't have a license is no reason to penalize a fighter. He has to make a living and should be granted that right."

"What he does with the money is no concern of ours. Under our resolution a suspended manager or one without a license can't come running to a commission to help if the fighter refuses to live up to their personal contract."

"Why should we deprive a top-ranking contender from a title shot because of his manager? That's what a fighter dreams about."

HELFAND mentioned the welterweight title bout between champion Carmen Basilio and Johnny Saxton scheduled for Feb. 15 in Chicago as a case in point. Saxton's manager, Blinky Palermo of Philadelphia, is not licensed in New York or Illinois.

"I was very anxious to have the fight in Syracuse (Basilio's home town)," Helfand declared. "But not at the cost of licensing Palermo or letting Saxton sign for himself."

Helfand said he was flattered by two other resolutions adopted by the NBA executive committee which pledged support to his "cleanup" of the sport.

But he added these were "completely nullified" by the resolution approving a fighter signing for himself. "The committee might as well not have met," he declared.

BEFORE THE dinner Helfand granted a 5-day delay for a hearing on charges against Tex Sullivan and Willie Gilzenberg, promoters of the Monday night TV-fights at St. Nicholas Arena. They have denied charges of "consorting with persons convicted of crime, bookmakers, gamblers and persons of similar pursuit."

The hearing is an outgrowth of Helfand's nine-month investigation of the Boxing Managers' Guild of New York which he termed "monopolistic." He ordered its members to resign by Jan. 16 or have their licenses revoked. Virtually all did.

Basilio, who made no comment on the speeches by Helfand and Radzienda, received the Edward J. Neil plaque as the 1955 "Fighter of the Year."

BOWLING SCORES

George Shufeldt, the Petersen Construction sub-anchor, was winging toward a "700" series at the end of two games in the Ferraro Major last night.

He had racked up 238 and 255—needed 207 to turn the trick. But a couple of tough breaks—181—and a 674 instead of the 700. Which ain't hay, of course.

Another highlight was the rock-and-sock duel in which Nadler Motors, outpinned 2916-2887—upset Rheingold Beer, 2-1. Rheingold had a 1040 solo and Nadlers ripped 1056.

Phyllis Wolff had her shootin' irons red hot in the Central Rec Women's League, coming up with a hefty 564 blast on games of 146, 229 and 189.

JOHN BRADY shelled the pocket consistently to come up with 197, 215, 216 and 628 league-leading series in the Sportsman's Major.

Ed Dasher socked 200-539, Joe Fautz 200-532, Joe Mahar 505, George Brown 519, Joe McGrane 204-201-587, Shelly Levy 522, Lou Guadagnola 542.

ED SMEDES cracked 202-215-601, Russ Lombardo 202-534, Joe Coughlin 202-539, Leo Bechtold 563, Frank Russano 213-560. John Schatzel unloaded 518, Chris Robinson 533, Mannie Colao 516, Lester Smith 500, Larry Petersen Jr. 201-543, Larry Wenzel 206-546, Nick Savino 200-507, Jack O'Rourke 516, Nick Carl 524, George Magley 526, Ralph Wilson 527.

Joneses Face Shanahan Five In HVBL Clash

It will be Hudson Valley League contenders night Saturday in Kingston, with three local squads clashing head-on with powerful opposition.

Jones Dairy takes on the fast-climbing defending champion, Ellenville Shanahans, and Elston's Sport Shop entertains the second place Mardi Bobs of Poughkeepsie in 8 p. m. clashes at the Bowledrome.

TONY'S PIZZERIA meets Middletown Merchants at the Central Recreation. Other matches have Rapp's Express at Ellenville Economy and Forst Packers at Peter Hand Beer.

Joneses hold a one-game lead over Mardi Bobs in the tightening race. Shanahans (33-18) have moved into third place, a length ahead of Tony's Pizzeria and Middletown Merchants.

A poor series in Liberty cost Johnny Ferraro a couple of points but his 206-36 for 48 games is four points better than his son, John Jr., at 202-10.

Pioneers Rout Skins

Poughkeepsie High's Pioneers got a 33-point performance from Monty Stickles and 22 from Stu Sonne to rout Liberty High, 81-43, yesterday at the Bridge City bandbox.

Rolling to their eight straight DUSO triumph, the Pioneers broke the game wide open with a 24-point third period to assume a 60-29 edge. They led 36-19 at the half.

CHARLIE JOHNSON, the brilliant all-round Pioneer athlete, played his last varsity basketball game for Poughkeepsie and did a tremendous defensive job on John Lawrence, Liberty's top scorer. Lawrence, who had averaged 24 points a game, was held to two, George Phillips also ended his Pioneer career.

Melvin Davis rimmed 20 points to pace the Redskins.

Immaculates Beat St. Mary's 60-31 In CYO Met Loop

Two sharpshooting forwards, Bob Burns and Tony Turck of Immaculate Conception, spearheaded a 60-31 victory over St. Mary's in a CYO Metropolitan loop contest this week.

Turck rimmed 13 points and Burns grabbed the runnerup slot with 12. Skip DeCicco dumped in 12 points for St. Mary's.

The winners built up a nine-point bulge in the first period and St. Mary's came back to battle them even terms in the second stanza but Immaculate Conception pulled out the stops again in the third and fourth periods.

Skier Breaks Arm

Cortina D'Ampezzo, Italy, Jan. 20 (AP)—Germany's top woman Alpine skier, Eva Lang, somersaulted and broke her left arm today while practicing for the winter Olympic games, opening next Thursday. The accident was another in a series which have plagued teams of several nations on the treacherous slopes and tricky ice rinks of this Alpine resort.

Gus Bell of the Cincinnati Redlegs is the best home run hitter under lights. At least he was in 1955. In 66 night games he hit 21 homers, one more than his teammate Ted Kluszewski.

The U.S. Coast Guard has operated a Nantucket Shoals lightship for 102 years.

San Francisco—Cleo Lane, 130, Oakland, Calif., outpointed Nunu Randle, 130, Oakland, 10.

Concede Soviets Six Medals In Winter Olympic Contests

Cortina D'Ampezzo, Italy, Jan. 20 (AP)—The Russians have a reputation for not entering international sports competition unless they think they can win. And next week's Winter Olympics, Russia's first, apparently are no exception.

With six days remaining before the 1956 games get under way in this Alpine village, even conservative appraisals of Russian strength concede the Soviets six gold medals.

That's more than some nations have been able to collect since the winter games were inaugurated in 1924.

From what they've seen of the Russians in warmup competition, particularly speed skating and ski jumping, experienced observers figure the big four among the Olympic nations — Norway, United States, Sweden and Finland—will have to make room for one more.

SINCE 1924, Norway has dominated the winter games, winning 30½ gold medals. The United States follows with 17. Then comes Sweden with 13 and Finland with 12½.

Skating and skiing are the toughest of the Olympic events to predict. And picking winners

TV OR NOT TV THAT IS THE QUESTION

Kingston, N. Y., Jan. 20 — Some fellows love to chat with the barber while getting a haircut, some like to sit and cogitate, some like to relax and enjoy the sensation of the clippers and the massage of the barber's hands while still others like to be entertained with a TV program.

Take your choice — we can accommodate you right on down to your favorite TV program. Enjoy your next haircut at Mickey's.

Rates Sihugo Green

Of Duquesne Second

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—Sidney (Sonny) Hertzberg, a scout for the professional New York Knickerbockers, today named this year's top five college players as Bill Russell of San Francisco, Sihugo Green of Duquesne, Tom Heinsohn of Holy Cross, Ron Shavlik of North Carolina State and Lennie Rosenbluth of North Carolina.

Hertzberg has seen nearly all the outstanding college players in action so his opinion carries weight.

"I'd rate Russell just a shade ahead of Green," he said. "Russell is the best big man I've seen and he has unusual stamina for someone with his thin appearance."

"BUT GREEN is the top backcourt man in the country in my opinion. He's capable of stepping into pro ball right now with any team in our league."

"Heinsohn, who'll probably be the Boston Celtics' first territorial draft choice, has great potential. Shavlik is very fast for a big man and is fine defensively. Rosenbluth is just terrific and has definite pro possibilities."

Hertzberg claims that Bill Uhl, Dayton's 7-foot star, and Hot Rod Hundley, West Virginia's prolific scorer, are not quite ready for pro basketball.

"Uhl is exceptionally fast for a man of his size," said Hertzberg. "But I don't think his reflexes are fast enough right now. He might have trouble defensively."

"HUNDLEY is as fine a ball handler as I've ever seen, maybe another Bob Cousy. But Hundley is a clown and you have to be serious to make good in the NBA. He'd be better off just concentrating on basketball."

Hertzberg rates Joe Holup of George Washington and Charley Tyra of Louisville as fine offensive players and also had high praise for Hal Lear of Temple and All-America Darrell Floyd of Furman, the nation's individual scoring leader.

Although he has not seen them on the court this year, the Knick scout said he had good reports on Lloyd Aubrey of Notre Dame, All-America Robin Freeman of Ohio State, Julius McCoy of Michigan State, Temple Tucker of Rice and Forest Arnold of Memphis State.

Piston Lead Now 3½ Games

(By The Associated Press)

The way the other three teams in the western half of the National Basketball Assn. are playing, the Fort Wayne Pistons should win the divisional title in a breeze.

The Pistons, of course, are helping their own cause. Last night, they defeated the St. Louis Hawks, the western tailenders, 90-83.

MEANWHILE, the third-place Minneapolis Lakers dropped a 122-100 decision to the Syracuse Nationals in the league's only other game.

The results moved Fort Wayne three and a half games ahead of the idle Rochester Royals and dropped Minneapolis a half game behind the runnersup. The Pistons, in fact, are the only westerners with a better than .500 record, having won 20 of 38 games. Rochester is 18-23.

San Francisco—Cleo Lane, 130, Oakland, Calif., outpointed Nunu Randle, 130, Oakland, 10.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 20 (AP)—W. S. Hackworth, president of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railway, said today he has turned down an offer to become president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad at a salary of $75,000 a year. Hackworth, head of the NC&StL for the past 10 years, said he has notified the New Haven board of directors of his decision.

Rejects Rail Post

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—The cash position of the treasury Jan. 17, 1956: Balance, $2,615,494,754.52; deposits fiscal year July 1, $31,374,449,099.74; withdrawals fiscal year, $39,571,687,375.74; total debt, (x) $280,197,722,437.71; gold assets, $21,691,923,950.11; (x) includes $472,192,545.30 debt not subject to statutory limit.

Treasury Receipts

Still, Russia probably can expect two gold medals—team and individual—in the men's cross country and two more in the women's cross country.

Justice Opposes Abolishing Juries
 New York, Jan. 20 (P)—State Supreme Court Justice Walter R. Hart is strongly opposed to abolishing jury trials in highway accident cases.

In Brooklyn yesterday, Hart placed his signature on a certificate of incorporation for the committee for the preservation of the constitutional right to trial by jury Inc., and said:

"The abolition of trial by jury is urged upon the ground that such a trial takes longer than one without a jury and, therefore, causes congestion of the calendars in our courts."

Hart said the blame for court congestion lies with the state Legislature for not providing more judicial manpower.

Non-jury trials have been advocated by some officials and lawmakers—including State Sen. Pliny W. Williamson, Westchester Republican, and David W. Peck, presiding justice of the Appellate Division, First Department.

Said Hart:

"It will be noted that no one has made an attack on the jury system on the ground that it does not promote the interests of justice."

Hacked to Death
 Belmont, Mass., Jan. 20 (P)—Miss Ethel McCoy, 56-year-old librarian at Harvard University business school, was hacked to death with an ax in her bed today and police took into custody today her 87-year-old father, Hugh A. McCoy. Police Chief William G. Heyd said the elderly parent, a retired telephone worker, would be arraigned on a murder charge later today in East Cambridge District Court.

Change in Argentina
 Buenos Aires (P)—The building which housed Eva Peron's social aid foundation is to be used for college classrooms. Education Minister Arturo Dell'Oro Maini announced the former Eva Peron Foundation headquarters in downtown Buenos Aires will be turned over to the science and architecture schools of Argentina's university system. He said present facilities for those schools are crowded. Eva Peron, wife of Dictator Juan Peron, created the foundation to help the needy. This in turn had political advantages for her and her husband. Forced contributions fed the foundation. Eva Peron died July 26, 1952. Juan Peron was overthrown last September. The revolutionary government has taken over the foundation.

Man in Check

On Ship Blast

Lake Charles, La., Jan. 20 (P)—Coast Guard examiners began looking today for a "bald headed guy from Boston" who knew about a leak in the cargo oil tank of the Salem Maritime the night it exploded and killed 18 persons.

He is believed among the 17 survivors still to be questioned by the special three-man Coast Guard investigating board looking into the Tuesday night blast.

Coast Guard officers last night questioned seven other survivors and the marine superintendent of Cities Service Oil Co., which owned the oil tanker.

The eight witnesses testified, in general, there was very little unusual about the Salem Maritime in Calcasieu river before the explosion. None would guess at the cause of the blast.

But three, including marine superintendent William Sharples, reported hearing of the leak from a bald crewman. Another witness recounted a rumor that the Salem Maritime's cargo feeding line was too hot that day as the tanker took on a full load of gasoline, kerosene and fuel oil.

Sharples handed the Coast Guard the latest accounting by Cities Service toll of the dead and missing. Of the 41-man crew, said Sharples, 14 are missing and presumed dead, the bodies of two others have been found and one man is missing but may still be alive.

A guard and a dock inspector employed by the firm also were killed as the explosion destroyed two docks of the company refinery, located about six miles from here.

Fuel Drivers End New York Strike

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—Settlement of the five-day strike of fuel supply drivers in New York city was announced today by Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

The mayor made his announcement in the presence of representatives of fuel dealers and Local 553, International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

Wagner said the agreement was unanimous and that both sides would recommend acceptance by their respective bodies. Terms of the agreement, reached after an all-night meeting at city hall, were not disclosed immediately.

THE WAGE-PENSION-Welfare dispute involved 3,000 drivers and 300 coal and oil distributors. The drivers deliver virtually all of the coal and 60 per cent of the fuel oil used in four of the city's five boroughs.

The companies whose fuel oil drivers were not involved in the strike had been swamped, and electric heaters and gas ovens in tens of thousands of homes burned constantly the past few days. By last night many big apartment houses were out of fuel or close to it.

Priority ratings were being given all institutions, and dwellings where there was illness. But there were indications that even those deliveries might bog down.

Carlino Says Party Not Considering Ave

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—Assemblyman Joseph F. Carlino, Republican majority leader of the lower House, says Gov. Averell Harriman is campaigning for the Democratic nomination for president but isn't even being considered for the spot.

Carlino told the annual meeting of the New York State Women's Federation of Republican Clubs yesterday.

"In these vital hours of the Legislature, when the legislators and the governor's office should be devoted to the affairs of the state, the governor is right now on an excursion to California and points west trying to stir up interest in his belated campaign for the presidency that has fallen so flat he isn't even being considered."

Carlino, a Long Beach resident, told the meeting that the Republican party has consistently done more for the people of the state than the Democrats have done.

Jury Resumes Case

Oakland, Calif., Jan. 20 (AP)—A jury resumes deliberations today on whether Burton Abbott kidnapped and murdered Stephanie Bryan. Jurors got the case yesterday and were locked up for the night after five hours and 35 minutes of discussion. Abbott, 27-year-old University of California student of accounting is charged with abducting, molesting and killing the 14-year-old junior high school girl.

Officials Probe Near Collision Of Two Airliners

Cleveland, Jan. 20 (AP)—Reports of a near collision between two airliners over Cleveland Hopkins Airport were under investigation today by airline and Civil Aeronautics Administration officials. The planes carried a total of 72 passengers.

Said to be involved in the near miss late last night were a United Air Lines DC-6 coming in from New York and bound for Los Angeles and a Capital Airlines Viscount bound here from Washington.

The DC-6, carrying 54 passengers, was piloted by Capt. A. R. Kidder of Chicago. Capt. C. S. Babylon was pilot of the Viscount, which had 18 passengers.

A CAA spokesman who declined to be quoted by name said both planes were waiting to land when the pilot of one of the planes apparently thought he was too close to the other and made a sudden drop to avoid a collision. In so doing his plane came close to the other plane, it was reported. Both planes later landed safely.

Bahan Found Guilty

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 20 (AP)—A Federal Court Jury has found Vance J. Bahan of Niagara Falls guilty of the $5,700 robbery of a Manufacturers & Traders Trust Co. branch bank in Niagara Falls last May 13. The jury returned the verdict last night after deliberating three hours and 10 minutes. The trial began Monday. Judge Harold P. Burke said sentence would be passed Jan. 31. Bahan, 34, was found guilty of all three counts of an indictment that charged him with bank robbery, entry with intent to commit larceny, and larceny. He faces a maximum sentence of 50 years in jail plus a $15,000 fine.

Weasel's Odor

Not only the skunk emits an odor when in danger. When angered, the weasel emits a penetrating and disagreeable odor, common to its family. The scent characteristic of all members of the weasel group is extraordinarily developed in the mink.
